Thoughtful Inaugural Address Is Highlight At Installation of 18th Princeton President

Calling for a renewed emphasis on spiritual and moral values on the part of students and faculty alike, Harold T. Shapiro assumed the presidency of Princeton University last Friday.

The simple installation ceremony in Richardson Auditorium lasted a mere 40 minutes, most of it taken up by President Shapiro's thoughtful inaugural address, which was framed as a dialogue with some of his predecessors and titled "Tradition, Continuity, Discovery and Change: A Conversation with Princeton's Past."

The installation ceremony was followed by a lunch of filet mignon and lox in Jadwin Gym for the entire University community. Marked by band music, balloons, pithy speeches and quintessentially Princeton presentations, the luncheon was the highlight of the day for most of the University community.

The inauguration took place on the heels of a snow storm, which may have accounted for the several empty seats in Richardson Auditorium as outgoing President William G. Bowen administered the oath of office to his successor. Except for the substitution "President of Princeton University" as the name of the office, the oath was identical to the oath administered to an elected official.

Describing his new role as "the beginning of a conversation between myself and the Princeton community," he said he hoped his tenure will result in "increased fellowship, enduring friendship and continued ledership for Princeton, not only in education and scholarship, but in the public discourse that gives meaning and moral significance to our lives."

Winter Gets Serious With Two Snowfalls

After December's above-normal temperatures — and a Christmas Day that would have done justice to Daytona Beach — the winter season finally began to take itself seriously during the first full week of the new year. Snow stormed in on Monday and Friday, January 4 and 8. And this past Monday dawned with a temperature reading of three-below-zero in weatherman David Ludlum's Princeton back yard.

Four inches of snow fell on Monday, causing the Princeton Regional Schools to delay opening for an hour-and-a-half. Schools in Montgomery, as well as Princeton Day School, Stuart, and Hun decided not to open at all. On Friday, when six inches fell, these same schools closed. But this time Princeton Region-

Neighbors Object to Walking Path Proposed for Ridge Development

It wasn't the density of development — 89 units in a combination of single-family homes and townhouses on the 225-acre tract — that brought the neighbors out on a cold night. Nor the five detention basins that will be necessary to handle storm water drainage.

At a Planning Board public hearing on section three and the second phase of section one of Princeton Ridge last Tuesday, neighbors did not even mention traffic — usually the prime cause of concern when a new residential development is in the works. Instead, residents who live on Bouvant Drive and Cherry Hill and Cherry Valley roads expressed their opposition to the footpath proposed to traverse the open space north of the construction area.

Last April, when Shadow Oaks Three, an arm of the Garden State Land Group of Cranbury, first came before the board for site plan approval for the Princeton Ridge development, neighbors along Bouvant Drive asked the board to delete a walking path south of the proposed building lots, behind their homes. They said that the path would give potential burglars a staging area from which to check out whether or not their homes were occupied, and thus constituted a safety hazard.

In response to their concern, the path to the south was deleted, but a path through the large contiguous area of open space on the north face of the ridge was left. Some 150 acres of the 225-acre tract, or 63 percent, are to be kept in open space. A large chunk and a smaller chunk of this contiguous open space in the vicinity of Cherry Hill and Cherry Valley roads are proposed to be deeded to the Township.

The footpath — or jogging trail, as the neighbors call it — is proposed to begin on the north side of Ridgeview Road near the gas pipeline and end at a point on the boundary with the 15-acre Arcaro tract at which the new north ridge sewer line will be constructed. According to Duggan Kimball, professional planner for the Planning Board, the path is designed to go along the edge of the woods and by the brook in the Griggs Farm development and end up at Route 206.

The neighbors were dismayed to find that although the walking path south of the development had been deleted, this "remnant" remained on the site plan as a

Township Patrolman Wins His Stork Pin For Delivering Baby

When Township Ptl. Robert Toole reported for work Tuesday morning he was wearing a silver stork pin — a gift from the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad. He had earned it by assisting in the birth of a baby girl the previous afternoon, but the patrolman, who has been a member of the Township force for a year and a half, isn't sure he wants a repeat performance.

"It was my first such experience," he said. "Hopefully, it will be my last."

Ptl. Toole responded to a 12:47 call Monday afternoon that a woman was giving birth to a baby in a Red Oak Row home a few blocks away. He was at the scene in minutes.

"I was shocked," he recalled. "It wasn't what I expected to see when I opened the door. I expected to see a woman in labor pains."

What Ptl. Toole saw was a breech baby with the umbilical cord around its neck halfway out the birth canal. During his police training, he had seen a film and heard a lecture about concept, with the exact location to be fixed "in the field" at a later date. Sheila Sidermao, 85 Bouvant Drive, pointed out that without accurate mapping the neighbors could not know where it would be located, nor could the Planning Board know what it was approving.

Footpath

Ernest Boyer, a resident of Cherry Valley Road, called the trail "a public pathway" which would invade private property and remove still more natural growth. He questioned why the Board had removed all other aspects of a trail system except this one "remnant," which he said has "a strange beginning and an abrupt ending."

Mr. Boyer asked the Board to either develop a more coherent trail system or "surrender" this one piece. Gail Colby, 679 Cherry Hill Road, said she was against any kind of footpath, adding that the land is very sensitive, very unusual, and any path will "totally disrupt any wildlife" in the area.

Ms. Colby said she had asked the developer not to permit hunting on the property, but had recently found a deer stand behind her house. "The property is honeycombed with deer stands," she said, adding that it was also a repository for stolen property.

"A footpath is a very bad idea here. We have a number of excellent parks. I think it is lunacy. We're not a park. This is an area that is most special, with special plants and birds and only a light covering of topsoil. I hate to see it developed."

Public Right. "If the land is so special," Planning Board member James Sayen remarked, "and the Township agrees to accept it as passive open space, then the public has a right to use it." Mr. Sayen suggested maybe the public get permission from the homeowners association to walk on the paths, but the audience groaned its disapproval.

Jerry Palin, 85 Bouvant Drive, said the jogging trail would pose a hazard because it would invite trail bikes as well as potential burglars. One man called the trail "a pathway for transients." Others spoke of the wetness of the area and the environmental degradation that would be wrought by the construction of the path — even if it were surfaced with wood chips.

Still others pointed out that the path was a creation of the municipality — not the developer — and that nobody wanted it. "The public can use the Community Park trail," said Les Lefkowitz, 20 Bouvant Drive. He said that the Community Park trail was little used and that there were sufficient trailways in Princeton without the new one proposed.

Mr. Kimball attempted twice to change the neighbors' image of a jogging trail with an overlaid surface. He said that what was proposed is "an informal path that would be laid through the woods wherever the topography lends itself to walking."

Little Used. Board member Phyllis Marchand, a jogger, told the audience she did not think the path would be used for jogging, because the terrain is too rough. Her colleague, Mary Ellen Marino, a walker, said "That's what's good about it." She added: "If the land is public open space, and if the public can't see it, what is the point? The public would like places to walk and see the deer. And with only two tennis courts for the residents of this development, there should be something for them to do."

Ms. Marino moved approval with the path as shown. Mr. Sayen seconded her motion. The Board voted 5-3, with Mrs. Marchand abstaining, to approve. Nay votes were cast by Hans Sander, Pamela Morine and Joseph O'Neil, while Kate Litvack, Mr. Sayen, Ms. Marino, Barbara Sigmund and Marvin Reed said yes.

Sign Vetoed. In other business, the Board rejected an application by the Rusty Scupper restaurant to replace its present wooden sign with an internally illuminated sign of about the same size. Although the proposed sign was designed in conformance with the Township's proposed sign ordinance, the Board found the aesthetics — the size of the letters and the illumination — not to its liking.

The Board also granted approval to the Princeton University Press to convert third floor storage space to six offices. The request is to relieve overcrowding in existing office space, the Board was told, and no increase in staff is expected. Nonetheless, there was discussion about present parking space — 47 spaces in a University lot — and future parking needs.

Do Princetonians Want Their Streets Well Lit Or Prefer a Darker, More Rural Ambience?

"The newer residents want their streets lit; the older residents don't."

This is how Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser summed up the situation in regard to street lights at a Township Committee meeting last Monday night. He made the remark at the end of a lengthy work session discussion which was ostensibly about a proposed street light ordinance. The ordinance is designed to clarify a situation which Township Attorney Edwin W. Schmierer described as "not clear" for developers or for residents.

A controversy in which Benedict Yedlin, developer of the Andrews-Foulet tract, and the new residents of that development are in conflict with Township practice and policy highlights the issue. As part of his application for a building permit, Mr. Yedlin filed a utilities plan showing the location of nine street lights on the first cul-de-sac in his development.

The lighting plan was designed by Public Service, which lays the wires and installs the poles and then bills the developer for this service. The actual lights or "luminaires" are not installed on the poles unless specifically approved by the Township engineer. When the street is accepted into the Township road system, the annual electricity cost is borne by the Township.

Safety Standard. However, the Township policy is to have street lights only where they are necessary for safety. Mr. Kiser says this means lights at intersections, curves in the road, and cul-de-sacs. In keeping with this policy, he approved luminaires for three of the nine poles.

According to Mr. Yedlin and to Michael Goodman, representing his neighbors, the residents feel the street is "underlit" with only three lights. They object to bare stanchions in front of their homes and want all nine poles fitted with luminaires.

Mr. Yedlin argues that the utilities plan approved by the engineer amounted to installation approval. Mr. Kiser acknowledges his approval of the utilities plan but says it was for location only. The matter is further complicated by the fact that the poles in the Andrews-Foulet development — as designed by Public Service, purveyor of electricity — are shorter than normal (13 feet instead of 20-some feet); are to be fitted with 100 watt luminaires (the proposed ordinance specifies 50 watts, except at intersections) and are closer together, i.e., 120-180 feet instead of the 250 feet in the ordinance.

Mr. Kiser says there are seven or eight new developments in the Township which have a lighting plan designed by Public Service in excess of Township practice and policy — policy which has never been ordinanced, however. He told Committee that residents of The Glen similarly petitioned the Township for more lights on their poles. A compromise was worked out by which the residents of the Glen agreed to pay for the costs of two lights themselves.

TOPICS Of the Town

'Unacceptable' Solution. Mr. Goodman told Committee this solution was "unacceptable" to the Andrews-Foulet residents. "In today's environment, we need more lights to protect our houses," he said. "What other developments do is not our concern. We think for the tax revenue we pay we should be entitled to have all nine lights."

Mr. Yedlin acknowledged, under questioning by Committeewoman Phyllis Marchand, that there are no street lights at all on his two most recent residential developments in the Township — Herrontown Lane, where he himself lives, and the Orchard Road townhouses off Mt. Lucas Road. But he said that the situation vis-a-vis street lights had changed in the last couple of years, and that residents want their streets well lighted. Committee agreed that street lights are preferable to floodlights on houses.

Mrs. Marchand equated the "spot-lighting" request of Mr. Yedlin and Mr. Goodman with "spot-zoning." "I live in a neighborhood with no street lights," she said. "One of the things about Princeton is trying to keep the town rural and not lit like a suburb. There are stargazers and other people who like the dark."

Mr. Kiser said he first encountered the problem when residents of Bouvant Drive asked for more street lights. He said that then Township Administrator Joseph Nini told him "Princeton is different. We don't like street lights here," and that he had been going by that directive ever since.

Committeewoman Janet Mitchell made a motion that the Yedlin-Goodman request be granted, but it was not seconded. Mayor Kate Litvack asked the engineer to provide Committee with more information and to make a specific recommendation vis-a-vis the Andrews-Foulet development. She promised Mr. Yedlin he would have an answer by the end of the month.

---

Other Business. In other business, Committee heard Mercer County Freeholders Bob Prunetti and Paul Kramer outline a five-point affordable housing program they have devised to alleviate the housing shortage in the County. Part of the program involves creating non-interest bearing deferred loans from a revolving fund to help qualified residents make down payments and meet closing costs. The $250,000 fund would be created from the $1 million the Freeholders have set aside for housing but have not spent.

Members of the Township Housing Board told Mr. Prunetti and Mr. Kramer that this aspect of their program would be particularly valuable in this municipality. Other aspects involve rehabilitation of substandard units, again using a revolving fund along with State monies, and setting up the Mercer County Improvement Authority as the agent to receive and disburse regional contributions.

Lake Carnegie Nomination. Committee also heard historian Constance Greiff of Heritage Studies in a presentation on the process of making nominations to the State and Federal historic registers. The Township has commissioned Mrs. Greiff's firm to make a study of Lake Carnegie to assess its potential eligibility for such a nomination.

The purpose is to be in a better position to insist on reconstruction, rather than replacement, of the Harry's Brook Bridge on Route 27 and to influence any future repairs on the Washington Road Bridge, should they be needed. Princeton University is concerned that such a nomination would mean involved and costly reviews for any project it might wish to undertake on or around the lake.

Eugene McPartland, University vice president for physical plant and property, was in the audience Monday and asked what might happen, for instance, should the University want to repair the dam at Kingston, or alter the crew course in some way. Mrs. Greiff acknowledged there would be a review if Federal monies were used for the project.

In still other business, Mayor Litvack named Ramona Huff to the Township Zoning Board of Adjustment. A Democrat, Mrs. Huff has served previously on the Zoning Board but was not re-appointed by the Republican Committee last year when her term was up. It became an issue, because Mrs. Huff is black and because the community was in the middle of a crisis over the Joan Hill case, involving the black Civil Rights Commissioner. At the time, Mrs. Huff said she was disappointed at not being re-appointed.

One Suspect Is Arrested In Service Station Theft

One suspect has been arrested, and police say more arrests are expected to follow, in the theft of about $2,000 from a Nassau Street service station during a two-week period.

A former employee, Mark Rowell, 30, of Trenton, was arrested Monday and charged with theft by Detectives John Reading and Dennis McMammon who are conducting the investigation. The money, estimated at $100 to $200 a day, was discovered missing from the daily receipts by the owner who called police.

Capt. Thomas Michaud said that the money — "in the area of $2,000" — had been taken between December 22 and January 7. Capt. Michaud declined to name the station, he said, because of the continuing investigation.

As yet, none of the missing money has been recovered.

The owners of parked cars were the victims of theft in three separate incidents last week in the Borough.

A Princeton resident returned Monday night to her unlocked car, which she had parked in the front driveway of a Bayard Lane home, to discover that three small travel bags had been stolen from the interior. Police report that the bags contained clothing and jewelry, but they have not yet received a value of the missing items.

When a Clementon resident returned to her 1980 sedan, parked last week on Witherspoon Street near Green, she discovered that her purse had been removed from the unlocked vehicle. It contained, police said, a calculator, check book, credit cards and $230 cash.

Earlier in the week, a Plainsboro resident had parked his 1985 Chevrolet in the YMCA lot and, like the previous two victims, had left it unlocked. Returning two hours later, he found his briefcase, containing a calculator and personal and business items, had been stolen. Total loss: $140.

Township police report that a 16-year-old Princeton juvenile was arrested Friday and charged with shoplifting two packs of cigarettes from the Super Fresh market in the Princeton Shopping Center.

He was processed by the Township juvenile officer and later released to his parents.

Landlord Registration

Owners of rental property in the Township are reminded that registration of every building or part of a building that is rented out as of January 1 of each year must be registered by the owner with the Township Clerk on or before February 1.

Rental registration forms are available in the Valley Road Building, 369 Witherspoon Street. There is no fee for this registration.

Apartment Is Entered On S. Stanworth Drive

Break-ins into the Stanworth Apartments off Bayard Lane have apparently resumed.

Police report that a first-floor apartment on S. Stanworth Drive was entered through an unlocked kitchen window between 1 and 8 Thursday evening. A neighbor, who was watching the apartment while the occupant is away, told police that a television set and VCR are missing.

Police, investigating, found footprints in the snow leading up to the kitchen window and more prints leading from the front door.

A dorm room in Feinberg Hall on the University campus was entered through an unlocked hallway door between 9 Friday night and 2:15 the next morning. Taken were a $350 compact disc player, an AM-FM cassette and a duffle bag. Two students are victims of the theft.

Last week, according to Township police, Mrs. Hilja Treumut of 46 Henry Avenue hid an envelope containing $590 in her first-floor study. The next morning she discovered it missing. No sign, police said, of any forced entry.

AN OLD FASHIONED "GENERAL STORE" serving residents of the John-Witherspoon area, the Leigh Avenue Convenience Store closed its doors on Christmas Eve — a victim of escalating rents.

Cost of Doing Business Forces Closing of Store

At 6 a.m., when the store opened, customers began coming in for their morning coffee. The newspapers usually arrived by 7, a daily magnet for the people who walked from their homes in the John-Witherspoon neighborhood to the tiny store on Leigh Avenue, near John Street.

The hand-lettered sign, "Leigh Avenue Convenience Store," is still over the door. But the store closed on Christmas Eve, a victim of the escalating costs of doing business in Princeton.

In the case of the Leigh Avenue Convenience Store, the escalation equalled $150 a month — a rent increase that proprieter Pete Young couldn't meet. So he closed up.

It was a convenience store in many ways. Seven days a week it opened early, to suit the hours of the working man and woman. It stocked everything a small market would carry, but in quantities of perhaps four or five.

There was bread, milk, eggs, juice, flour, sugar, crackers, pancake mix — even, sometimes, potatoes and onions. In the corner, on a few unpainted wooden shelves, were such items as shampoo, light bulbs, and soap. The grill behind the counter offered burgers, fries, sandwiches, coffee.

Children heading home from Community Park, the middle school and the high school were frequent customers, drawn by the ice cream bars, candy, and packaged cookies.

There were four or five customers in the store at 8 a.m. on the morning it closed. Bill Brooks, a longtime resident of John Street, said the store would be missed. "It's a great asset to the community. Lots of people don't have a car, and there has to be a way for people to have a convenience store.

"It has been a gathering place for the community," Mr. Brooks added, pointing out that Mr. Young has been "understanding" with his customers.

Mike Fuschini, a resident of Birch Avenue, described himself as a "regular customer." Speaking to the sound of a grill hissing behind the high counter, he said the store was not only convenient for things, but was a place to meet, "to have your coffee and discuss what's going on." Mr. Fuschini believes such a store is a necessity for the neighborhood. "There's no place to go now," he said.

Rick Skipworth, who manages American Legion Post 218 on Lytle Street, called the store "a landmark that will be missed, and one of the last black-owned businesses in the Witherspoon area."

"I doubt that you'll see another store come back in the neighborhood," he said, adding that the closing was a sign of "big money putting small businessmen out.

"The changes in the area all revolve around the dollar," said Mr. Skipworth. "There is no room for the small businessman in the area, uptown and down. Lots of stores have had to succumb to big money coming into Princeton."

Building owner Maron Craig has begun trying to rent the space. He said the small store could be expanded "if the Twonship would relax some of its ordinances." He'd like to see a corporate convenience store come in, but the liveliest sign of interest so far has come from several doctors.

Mr. Young was philosophical, saying that he could see Mr. Craig's position. Mr. Brooks felt the same way. "I can understand both sides," he said. "People need money."

This isn't the first time that Mr. Young has had to watch a business he built up move out from under him. He owned The Coffee Cup, a small coffee shop on Leigh Avenue across the street from the convenience store. The shop closed several years ago to make way for the Mexican Village restaurant.

Once the corner of Leigh and John was a busy commercial area. There was a grocery on each of the corners, including a large store that was compared by one resident to Hill's Market. This market, on upper Witherspoon Street, was destroyed by fire nearly a decade ago.

Now, with the closing of the convenience store, the only commercial operations at the intersection are the Mexican restaurant and a hairdrdesser.

TRENTON ROUNDUP

Gas Tax Rise

A two-and-a-half cent increase in the gasoline tax has been approved by the State legislature. This would raise the total State gasoline tax from eight to 10.5 cents per gallon beginning July 1.

The 2.5 cents, plus an additional two cents per gallon from the general fund, will be used to finance long-term highway, bridge and mass transit improvements. The increase is expected to raise approximately $100 million a year.

Governor Thomas Kean is expected to sign the bill.

Pay Raise for Legislature

A measure that would increase salaries by $10,000 a year for members of the State Senate and Assembly has been approved by both houses.

The increase, which would raise salaries from $25,000 to $35,000, would take effect January, 1990.

Host Liability

The State Assembly has approved a bill limiting the liability of social hosts for guests who become intoxicated and then get into accidents.

Under the measure, a host would be liable only if he knowingly served alcohol to a visibly intoxicated guest.

Gov. Thomas Kean is expected to sign the bill, which includes changes he requested when he conditionally vetoed the measure in November.

Further Casino Control

The State Assembly approved four measures that would impose greater control on high bets and on gifts awarded by casinos. Under one bill, all casinos would have to report transactions of at least $10,000 to the State and the IRS. This is aimed at preventing laundering of illegally derived money.

Another bill limits complimentary services to free rooms, transportation, food, beverages and entertainment. Cash awards would be prohibited.

AIDS Notification Bill Vetoed

Gov. Thomas Kean has vetoed a bill that would require funeral homes to be notified when they are dealing with AIDS victims. The Governor spoke positively about the bill's intent, but said the measure was flawed because it didn't require funeral homes to be told if someone had AIDS-related complex or the AIDS virus, but didn't have the disease.

Gov. Kean also vetoed bills that would have increased Medicaid dental reimbursement fees by 20 percent, provided new State aid for the renovation or replacement of school buildings, and provided home health care services to elderly or disabled veterans.

Cable Customer Reimbursement

Final legislative approval was given by the Assembly to a measure that requires cable television companies to grant refunds to customers for service interruptions. Companies would be required to return a full day's credit for any day in which a cable outage lasted at least six hours.

The legislation now goes to Gov. Thomas Kean for consideration.

Land Use Bill Approved

A bill to give the Legislature power to reject the land-use recommendations of the State Planning Commission has been approved by the State Assembly. The Commission was formed two years ago to develop a state land-use strategy that would balance development with preservation of open space.

Gov. Thomas Kean is expected to veto the measure on constitutional grounds.

The Commission's draft report, released last April, was criticized by legislators, developers and builders.

The only thing that started was a fire.

Police report the carburetor back-fired and began to belch fire. The blaze was put out by Ptl. Stephan Hogancamp with a powder extinguisher from his patrol car. One piece of fire apparatus and seven Princeton firemen also arrived to assist. The fire, police said, was confined to the carburetor.

Cold Is No Deterrent To Battle Park Flasher

Despite the fact that a snowstorm had just dumped four inches of snow on the ground or that the temperature was in the 20s, a man wearing only a sweater exposed himself to a skier here Friday.

According to Lt. David Potts, a 30-year-old Princeton resident was cross-country skiing along a nature trail at the southeast corner of Princeton Battlefeld Park near the Institute for Advanced Study around 3:45 when she came upon a man standing in front of her wearing only a blue, windbreaker-type sweater. The man's grey ski pants were lying on the ground.

The victim left and went to Township police headquarters to report the incident.

Police responded and were able to trace the suspect's tracks from the scene to a parking lot. He is described as a white male in his 30s, about 5-8, 160 pounds, with dark hair and a moustache.

Vandals Damage Addition At Borough Birth Center

During the weekend, vandals damaged an addition under construction at the Familyborn Birth Center on Wiggins Street by punching holes in some sheetrock wallboard.

Police have not received an estimate of the damage but Capt. Thomas Michaud said the vandalism was not extensive and was "probably less than $100."

Two Drivers Are Fined In Borough Traffic Court

In Borough traffic court Monday, William Whitaker, 10 Beech Hill Circle, was fined $20 for no license or registration in possession and David E. Resiberg, 8 Leavitt Lane, paid the same amount for improper entering or leaving a highway.

In Borough criminal court last week, George Boccanfuso, 20 Guyot Avenue, was fined $45 and $30 to the Violent Crime Compensation Board for criminal trespass. Marni Weisberg, 11 Woodmont Drive, Lawrenceville, paid two fines: $60 for careless driving and $20 for improper maintenance of lights.

In Township court last week, Anne Kucks, 6 Merritt Lane, Rocky Hill, was fined $65 for careless driving.

The program is aimed at parents of children in the middle school grades. It is designed to alert parents to the potential of substance abuse and advise them where to go for help if substance abuse is suspected.

Municipal Judge Sydney S. Souter, community service director for the Princeton Rotary Club, will moderate the program. Judge Souter says he sees substance abuse in the municipal court, from the teen age alchoholic being sent to jail as a third offender drunk driver, to the young burglar caught stealing to support a drug habit.

He says, "These youngsters are not imports from Trenton and New Brunswick who find our town 'easy pickings' (although we do have that problem), but sons and daughters of your neighbors who have learned their alcohol and drugs right under our noses — and perhaps even with our unwitting permission."

He continues, "When your child or your neighbor's child appears in Court and is in deep, deep trouble, there is little a judge can do to turn back the clock and prevent a terrible waste of a child's future before the fact.

"None of us as parents raise our children to be sent to rehab centers or to jail. How does it happen? How do our kids get hooked on either drugs or alcohol? And what can we do to prevent it?"

He says there are many ways to spot and identify the beginning signs of alcohol and drug abuse, but few people — few parents — know what they are and what to do when they see them. Similarly, there are many programs in the community directed to drug and alcohol abuse, but few parents know where they are and how to get to them before the police arrive.

The program is an effort to give parents this information. It will begin with welcoming remarks by William Johnson, principal of the Middle School; Phyllis Marchand, Township Committee representative to the Intergovernmental Coordinating Committee for Drug Abuse Prevention; and Norman Callaway, president of the Rotary Club of Princeton.

The first part of the program is devoted to "Substance Abuse and How To Spot It." Dean Barcalow, a certified alcoholism counselor, will speak on "Is Your Child an Alcoholic?" and Michael Leone, a counselor at Freedom House, will speak on "Will Your Child Become an Addict?"

The next section is entitled "There Is Help Available." Speakers will include John Reading, Princeton Borough Juvenile Officer; Kay McGrath, Mercer Council on Alcoholism; Linda Meisel, Corner House; Eva Collins, Intergovernmental Coordinating Committee; and Charles Huchet, Special Services Coordinator, Princeton Regional Schools.

The program will include a 30-minute period for questions from the floor, before closing remarks by Mr. Callaway and Mr. Johnson. The raindate is February 3.

Judge Souter says that "Informed, supportive, alert parents are the only real defense to substance abuse before it starts." He urges parents to attend and says he hopes "a child or two will be rescued from addiction through our efforts."

Helpline Needs Volunteers

Contact — a 24-hour-a-day helpline for people with problems — is seeking volunteers. Interested persons will be trained to help callers with problems that may include drugs, alcohol, depression, loneliness, suicidal thoughts, or grief.

Orientation sessions will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, February 2 and 3, from 10 to 11 a.m. and from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church, Main Street. The training course will meet weekly at the church beginning Tuesday, February 9, and will continue through May 24. Volunteers may attend morning classes, from 9 to noon, or evening classes, from 7:30 to 10:30.

The Contact helplines have been staffed with trained volunteers on a continuous basis, 24 hours a day, for more more than 12 years. For further information, or to volunteer, call Contact at 896-2120 or 585-2244.

Joint Recital on Sunday By Westminster Faculty

The Westminster Faculty Recital Series will continue Sunday with a performance by mezzo-soprano Lindsey Christiansen and pianist Phyllis Lehrer. The recital will begin at 8 p.m. in Bristol Chapel on the Westminster campus.

The program will feature performances of Maurice Ravel's Chansons Madecasses, which will also include flutist Jayn Rosenfeld and cellist Elizabeth Thompson, and Joseph Haydn's cantata Ariodna a Naxos. Also on the program will be songs by Johannes Brahms and Irving Fine, and Claude Debussy's Images for solo piano.

Ms. Christiansen is head of the Westminster Voice Department. She earned a bachelor of arts at the University of Richmond and a master of music at the University of Illinois. She has given many concerts in the United States and Europe.

Ms. Lehrer is head of the Westminster Piano Department. She earned a master's degree from the Juilliard School of Music and has performed extensively both as a soloist and as a chamber artist in the United States, Canada and Great Britain. As a 1987 winner of the Artists International Distinguished Artist Award, she performed a solo recital in New York's Merkin Concert Hall.

Tickets are $5 for adults, $3 for students and senior citizens. For information, call 921-2663.

New Technical Director At Plasma Physics Lab

Edson C. Brolin, a former vice president of Burns and Roe Enterprises, Inc., has been named deputy director for technical operations at the Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory (PPPL).

Mr. Brolin will be responsible for the operation of the Laboratory's major magnetic fusion energy experimental projects including the Tokamak Fusion Test Reactor and the Princeton Beta Experiment. He will also be responsible for direction of the engineering program, for all project support facilities and activities, and for the construction of the Compact Ignition Tokamak, scheduled for completion at PPPL in 1994.

Edson C. Brolin

Mr. Brolin received his B.S. degree in civil engineering from Tufts University in 1959, and his M.S. degree in mechanical engineering from George Washington University in 1970. He is a licensed nuclear engineer.

Mr. Brolin worked in the Naval Nuclear Propulsion Program, under Admiral Rickover, and was responsible for design and construction of the NR-1, a nuclear-powered deep-submergence oceanographic research vessel. He joined Burns and Roe in 1974 and worked on a series of reactor and power plant projects, beginning with the Liquid Metal Fast Breeder Reactor at Clinch River, Tenn. He held the post of director, Nuclear Plant Services Division, before he was named vice-president in 1984. He left Burns and Roe in 1987 to start his own consulting practice.

Mr Brolin's predeecessors in the deputy director position were Don Grove, a fusion scientist who had worked at PPPL since 1954, and James R. Thompson Jr., who left the laboratory in October 1986 to become director of NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center.

The Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory is one of the world's leading laboratories engaged in the development of magnetic fusion energy as an inexhaustible, safe, and environmentally acceptable means of generating electricity for the long term. It is funded by the United States Department of Energy.

Selllement Is Reached In $16 Million Land Suit

A Plainsboro land developer has settled his $16 million suit against Adlerman, Click & Co. The soit, in its second week of trial, sought $16 million in damages from the Spring Street realty firm because, said investor Ezra Zeloof, Mel Adlerman and Morrie Click stopped him from buying land on Route 1 and Meadow Road in 1973, sent back his check, and then bought the property themselves.

Adlerman, Click referred qoestions about the settlement to Attorney Bruce Schragger. Mr. Schragger did not respond to efforts to reach him.

Mr. Zeloof had sued for the difference between the $775,000 for which he could have bought the 71 acres of land in West Windsor Township in 1973, and the $15 or $16 million it is worth today.

He testified betore a jury and Mercer County Superior Court

Judge Daniel A. O'Donnell that Adlerman, Click had a listing agreement in 1973 with the owner of the land.

Mr. Zeloof told the court he submitted a proposal on July 3, 1973, through Adlerman, Click, for an option to buy the land for a half million dollars, with the understanding he could go higher. But, he said, his initial check for $500 was returned within two weeks.

The suit charged that, one week after Mr. Zeloof submitted his proposal, Adlerman and Click conspired with five others — all members of The Horowitz Partnership of Jersey City — to enter into an agreement to buy the parcel themselves. According to court papers, the deed for the land went to the partnership on January 7, 1981.

Mr. Zeloof testified that Adlerman, Click kept their apparent conflict of interest from him, and according to the suit, "thereby deprived (Zeloof) of substantial profits to which he would otherwise have been entitled.

Surface Processing Center Focus of New Consortium

Princeton University has joined with Rutgers University, the New Jersey Institute of Technology, the David Sarnoff Research Center, and the Stevens Institute of Technology, to form a Center for Surface Processing.

Surface processing involves the tailoring of materials and their surfaces at atomic levels to suit particular applications. The consortium for Surface Processing will target research on advanced light-activated electronic devices for computers and communications and on surfaces to resist corrosion, wear, and chemical attack. It is anticipated that the applications of this research to industrial problems will represent significant savings in lost materials and result in the formation of wholly new companies manufacturing computer and communication related devices.

"Surface processing represents a particularly fertile ground for research initiatives that involve cooperation across academic disciplines and among institutions," said Hisashi Kobayashi, dean of Princeton's School of Engineering and Applied Science and acting chairman of the consortium. "Though we expect to make very efficient use of grant funding, we have begun the work of this consortium without benefit of a seed grant. We believe this fact demonstrates an unprecedented commitment to approach fundamental research in a concerted manner. We are pleased to operate within the context of a state that has sought to promote this kind of cooperation among research institutions and between the worlds of commerce and academe."

The consortium will be managed by a board of governors consisting of two representatives of each institutional member, three representatives of industry to be elected by the other governors, and a non-voting representative of the New Jersey Commission on Science and Technology. The commission provided planning funds for a proposal to the National Science Foundation which also led to the decision to form the consortium.

Bernard H. Kear, chairman of the Department of Mechanics and Material Science and director of the Center for Material Synthesis at Rutgers, is the technical director of the Engineering Research Center for Surface Processing. The program directors are Joseph Cec-chi of Princeton, Traugott Fischer of Stevens and David Richman of the SRI/David Sarnoff Research Center.

He's Boss When It Comes to Lacrosse

Lacrosse may never benefit from the big-money payoffs enjoyed by baseball, basketball, football, tennis or golf, but several years of practice in the sport paid a handsome dividend for a Princeton resident earlier this month.

Chris McCabe, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. McCabe Jr., 315 Herrontown Road, hit the jackpot during a halftime contest at an indoor lacrosse league game at the Meadowlands Arena on January 3. Chris and three friends, Vince Totaro and Grant and Zach Gund, went to the season's opener between the New Jersey Saints and a team from Baltimore.

Before the game began they filled out cards with their names and addresses for a chance to participate in a contest at halftime. Chris was chosen at random with six other people to compete. The object of the contest was to shoot a lacrosse ball at a goal some 50 to 60 feet away. Smaller than a 6'x6' goal used outside, an indoor cage measures just 4'x3'.

"The stick was brand new, and had no pocket in it, so I didn't have much feel for it before I took my first shot," Chris recounted. The ball had to go in on the fly, so I just lobbed my first shot. It missed by about a foot, but the second one hit the post and went in."

One other person was also successful on one shot, so the two remaining players moved back even further. Chris's opponent, going first, missed both his shots. Chris stepped up, scored with his first shot, and became a grand prize winner.

Tops on the list are two free airline tickets to any city served by U.S. Air, plus dinner for two at Pegasus, the restaurant at the Meadowlands, a gift certificate at the Meadowlands Hilton, and a host of lesser prizes. Chris is thinking about using his tickets in May to get himself and a friend to Los Angeles and then fly to Hawaii from there.

That will be right after he finishes his freshman year at the University of Vermont, where he will be playing lacrosse this spring. Chris has had plenty of experience in the sport. He first learned it at PDS from Bob Krueger, becoming a top-notch goalie. He played on the Princeton Day team that won the State championship in 1985, and then transferred to Lawrenceville and played there for two years.

Opportunities Still Open For Recreation Activities

Registrations are still being accepted for the morning session of "Lisarcize" — the adult exercise classes taught by Lisa Watson. The session began on January 6 and extends to February 22. The class meets on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9:30 to 10:30 at the Suzanne Patterson Center behind Borough Hall. The cost is $21 for Princeton residents and $42 for non-residents.

Registration forms are available at the Recreation Office.

The Recreation Department still has openings in each of its four ski trips to the Craigmeur ski area in New Foundland, N.J., for students in grades five through eight. Registration is open to Princeton residents and non-residents attending school in Princeton.

The trips take place on Saturdays. The bus will leave Princeton at 3 p.m. and return at approximately 10:30 p.m. on January 16, 23 and 30, and February 6. Cost per trip ranges from $23 to $37.

The department also invites all men living in the Township or Borough to take part in the recreational basketball program which is held on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7:15 to 10 in the "old gym" at Princeton High School. The program will continue until March 2. However, it will not be held on January 18 and February 15, which are school holidays.

Monday evenings will be for low-key recreational play and Wednesday evenings will be more competitive.

For more information, call the Recreation Office at 921-9480.

Antique Show and Sale To Benefit Womanspace

The New Jersey National Guard Armory in Lawrenceville will be the site of an exhibition and sale of fine antiques on Saturday and Sunday, February 13 and 14. The Lawrenceville/Mercer County Antiques Show will feature 50 dealers from six states, who will offer country and formal furniture, paintings, folk art, textiles, and accessorites.

The show will benefit Womanspace, Inc., a non-profit organization serving victims of domestic violence in Mercer County. Womanspace maintains a 24-hour-a-day hotline (394-9000) and provides emergency shelter for women and children in crisis situations. In 1987, more than 2400 requests for shelter, counseling and support services were answered.

Among the dealers who will exhibit in February are River Edge Farm Antiques, Bridgewater; Joan and Lori Kramer, Lahaska; Linda Rosen, Hopewell; Carolyn Hills, Lawrenceville; and Daniel Vossbein of Pennsylvania.

Show hours will be 11 to 8 on Saturday and 11 to 5 on Sunday. There will be refreshments available, and there is abundant parking. Admission is $3.50.

The National Guard Armory is located at 151 Eggerts Crossing Road, one-quarter mile off Route 206.

The speakers will be John C. Baumann, M.D., and Terri Maxwell, M.S.N., both of Princeton Medical Center. The program is sponsored by the Breast Cancer Resource Center at the YWCA.

Dr. Baumann, who received his undergraduate training at Princeton University prior to being awarded a medical degree by Harvard Medical School, has held the position of director of radiation oncology at the Medical Center since 1985. Before coming to Princeton, he served as chief of radiation oncology at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

Dr. Baumann will discuss changing technologieal and treatment alternatives in radiation therapy. Among the topics he will review are the use of radiation in early-stage breast cancer, new developments in radiation therapy, and radiation for metastatic disease. Dr. Baumann will also address the treatment of cancer with the linear accelerator soon to be eompleted at the Medical Center.

Ms. Maxwell, oneology clinical specialist at the Medical Center, will provide an update on the hospital's cancer program.

Advance registration is not required, but is helpful in planning seating and refreshments. Admission is free, but donations will be accepted.

Student Dean Appointed By Princeton University

Eida Berrio, an administrator for the New Jersey Department of Higher Education and formerly with the Educational Opportunity Program at New Jersey Institute of Technology, has been appointed assistant dean of students and special assistant to the dean of the college at Princeton University, effective January 25.

Ms. Berrio will be responsible for evaluating and developing programs that respond to the needs and talents of students who, by virtue of racial, cultural or economic background, may experience complex or difficult adjustments to University life. She will oversee the pre-freshman orientation program in which approximately 35 students participate each year. She will also be involved in the evaluation of support services for all undergraduates.

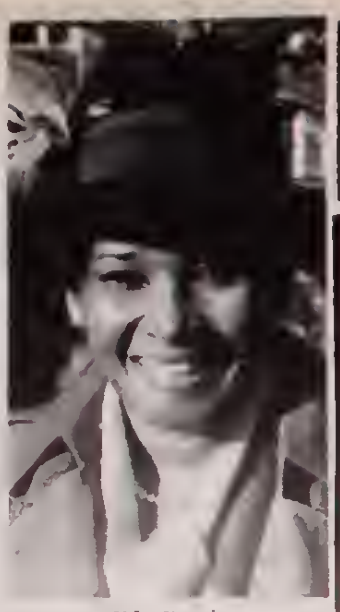
Ms. Berrio will be responsible for monitoring the impact of University policies in the areas of admission, financial aid, advising and residential life on the status and well-being of undergraduate minority students.

"I wish I could say the problems minorities face here are unique to Princeton," Ms. Berrio said, "Unfortunately, that is not the case. These problems are increased by greater academic pressure and the presence of fewer minority professionals who can serve as role models for students. I look forward to being able to make a significant contribution to these students and to the University."

As assistant director of the Office of Language and International Education within the State Department of Higher Education, Ms. Berrio has collaborated in developing recruitment and retention policies pertaining to minorities in higher education. She assisted with oversight of all program and project development with respect to bilingual education, English as a second language instruction, and foreign language and international education.

At the time of her appointment to the State post earlier this year, Ms. Berrio was completing her sixth year with the Educational Opportunity Program at the New Jersey Institute of Technology in Newark. As associate director of that office since 1984, she coordinated and supervised summer and intersession programs and other major program activities. Earlier she had served as coordinator of admissions and recruitment, organizing career and financial aid workshops, providing academic and personal counseling, and serving as adviser to minority student organizations.

A native of Panama City, Ms. Berrio settled in New York City 18 years ago. She earned her bachelor's degree from Montclair State College in 1976 and her master's in education from Seton Hall in 1978. She currently is at work on her doctorate at Seton Hall's College of Education and Human Services.



Eida Berrio

Prior to her experience at the New Jersey Institute of Technology, Ms. Berrio taught English as a second language at Hudson County Community College (1980-81), and advised young people and adults about college placement opportunities at Essex County College (1978-80).

New Development Dept. Is Approved by Council

Borough Council last week approved a resolution establishing a new Department of Community Development. It will be headed by Zoning Officer Frank Slimak, who will be assisted by Sean Burns.

The new department will encompass the Zoning Board, Historic Preservation Committee, Affordable Housing Program, Neighborhod Preservation Program, and other development projects.

Its first major project will be the oversight of construction, financing, marketing, selection, leasing, and sale of the Borough's planned 68 units of lease-purchase affordable housing. Ground is expected to be broken for the first phase of the project in April.

The department will also examine parking alternatives; oversee the sale of the Chambers Street firehouse; explore the possibility of State aid for the development of small family-owned businesses on Witherspoon Street, between Quarry and Lytle Streets; and look into a possible change in zoning ordinances to encourage the addition of apartments to single-family homes.

Two Scholarships Offered To Pennington School

The Pennington School is offering two scholarships in the name of Lionel R. Driscoll, graduate, trustee, and longtime friend of the school.

The scholarships are awarded on the basis of academic and personal merit. Each scholarship will provide full day student tuition for either a new boarding student or a new day student for one academic year. Following that year, Driscoll Scholars may apply for financial aid based on need.

Any student entering grades 7-12 not presently attending The Pennington School is eligible.

A test is required. Testing dates are Wednesday evening, February 3, at 7 p.m.; Saturday morning, February 6, at 9 a.m.; Sunday afternoon, February 7, at 2 p.m.; and, in case of inclement weather, Wednesday evening, February 10, at 7. For a testing reservation call the Office of Admission at 737-1838. There is no fee for testing.

The Pennington School is owned by the Southern New Jersey Conference of the United Methodist Church and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national or ethnic origin in its admissions or administrative policies.

Parent Education Night At Nassau Nursery School

Nassau Nursery School, which is held at Trinity Church, is sponsoring a parent education program on Thursday, January 21, at 7:30 in Pierce Hall at the church.

Dr. Mel Silberman, a family therapist and author of How to Discipline Without Feeling Guilty will discuss four steps for helping parents change their children's behavior in a program entitled "When Your Child Is Difficult."

Dr. Silberman has lectured extensively to parents and childcare professionals. He teaches at Temple University and is the author of the forthcoming book Confident Parenting.

Selection of Bird Feeds Sold in Bulk Quantities

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association is sponsoring a winter Bird Seed Savings Day.

The Association, along with other environmental organizations, is supplying high quality bird feed in bulk quantities for all to buy. Proceeds from the sale help to support the Watershed Association's environmental education programs.

There is a selection of sunflower seeds, mixed bird feeds, a special mix containing 30% sunflower seeds, as well as an assortment of specialty bird feeds. Also for sale is Donald and Lillian Stokes' book, The Birdfeeder Book.

Order forms have been mailed to the Watershed Association's members, and the offer is also available to the public. To order seed in bulk quantities (10- to 50-pound bags) at low prices, call the Watershed office at 737-3735 between 9 and 4.

Orders must be placed by January 22, and pick-up will be February 6 between 9:30 and 1:30 at the Watershed headquarters on Titus Mill Road in hopewell Township.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

HOW TO KILL A TREE
Part 1
with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

We, at WOODWINDS, really don't want you to "Kill a Tree", but obviously, many tree killings are unwitting accidents. Let's examine how and why this happens. One way begins at the nursery, where healthy, strong stemmed, well rooted trees with take-me-home appeal are offered. Some of them may be genetically unable to endure the climate where the purchaser intends to put them. Always make sure to check the zone where the species is most happy.

Even if the tree does not have a climatic strike against it, there are still several ways you could kill a tree with adverse conditions. For instance, pine trees will not live long planted in the shade of maples. If you have overhead wires around, the utility man on his cherry picker will likely hack away part of it in a manner that mars its beauty and may bring on decay. Prospects are never bright for trees planted in narrow strips along sidewalks and curbs. If delivery trucks don't get them, restricted root zone will.

You can also kill a tree by planting it with its crown (where the trunk meets the root) a cozy five inches down into the soil. Many think such planting adds to the trees comfort and stability, while, in fact, it has less chance to survive. Another form is to dig the hole deeper than necessary and incorporate a huge amount of peat moss or humus as backfill. This way the tree can be planted at proper depth, but, in time the soil will settle the tree into a depression. In winter, water can collect in the basin, freeze and crust the cambium layer at the base of the tree. The true cause of such mysterious deaths may never be detected.

Don't forget to check with WOODWINDS (924-3500) about our Annual Maintenance Program for your property.

Workshops for Educators At Watershed Association

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association will sponsor a series of workshops throughout the winter and spring for teachers, scout leaders and other educators. The first is "Discovering Winter," a workshop focusing on the study of winter ecology, which will be conducted on Thursday, January 21, from 9:30 to 3:30 at the headquarters building on the Watershed Association's 585-acre nature reserve in Hopewell Township.

Educators will learn how to lead their students through an assortment of activities and investigations exploring the wonders of winter. Most of the workshop will be conducted outdoors as educators participate in a variety of hands-on activities and investigations. Each participant will also receive a copy of the Stokes Guide to Nature in Winter.

Registration is necessary for this workshop and there is a fee. Space is limited, so register now. To register or for more information, call the Watershed Association at 737-3735.

Literature Course Set For Area Senior Citizens

Prof. George Ingenbrandt will again instruct a literature course for seniors sponsored by the Princeton Senior Resource Center. It will begin January 19 and will continue for 15 weeks. Hours are 1 to 3 p.m. Classes will be held at the Senior Resource Center.

Prof. Ingenbrandt has taught a great variety of courses in the fields of religion and literature at Mercer County Community College, and has led discussion groups for seniors for the past ten years. He will include selections from the biographies of former Presidents' wives in this semester's course.

No outside reading is required and there will be no tests or homework.

Fee is $25. To register, call the Senior Resource Center at 924-7108.

al joined the list, for its first school closing of the year.

Mr. Ludlum says temperatures have run six degrees below normal so far this month, and a bit more snow than usual has fallen. But he doesn't know if we will match last year, when there was snow on the ground in Princeton until March 1. This accumulation was helped along by two 11-inch snowfalls, on January 22 and February 23, 1987.

assisting in a delivery, "but that was about it," he said.

It was not the time to freeze. Ptl. Toole said that he assisted in the delivery for a few more inches and by that time the First Aid Squad had arrived. "I let them finish it. They were better at it than I was," he said..

The baby was crying and Ptl. Toole reported that she sounded pretty healthy to him. Mother and daughter were whisked to Princeton Medical Center, where the official time of birth was listed as 12:54.

The mother is a Trenton resident. Ptl. Toole reported the baby was her second. "I was surprised she waited so long."

As he sat at his desk the next morning, there was a hint of a smile, a perceptible air of satisfaction surrounding Ptl. Toole. It may have been harrowing, but he had, nevertheless, had a hand in doing something that makes being a policeman worthwhile.

And it felt good.

From his reading of the inaugural addresses and other speeches of his predecessors, President Shapiro drew two lessons which he said were worth attention. The first was "the importance of an active personal commitment to the University as a whole." The second was that "science and learning do not by themselves satisfy our need to provide meaning to our lives."

He continued to dwell on the latter lesson by adding "My predecessors, all of them, shared our appreciation of the redemptive qualities of the advancement of knowledge, but they would advise us — and did advise me — to pay more careful attention to the need to give moral significance to our lives by establishing bonds between each other and between ourselves and the future of humankind."

President Shapiro cited several "deficits" or failings of the modern university as an environment to support spiritual growth:

• "Too few of us or our students understand that in a just society that is committed to change and progress, there is a never-ending struggle to find meaning and moral significance in our individual and collective lives.

• "Too few of us or our students understand that we achieve such meaning and significance primarily through bonds to each other and the future of humankind and not simply through the march of science and material progress.

• "Too few of us or our students understand the difference between the mastery of what is true and the mystery of what is good and beautiful, but not now accessible as truth.

• "Too few of us or our students understand that only through the struggle of articulating the difference between good and bad can we express our moral concern and commitment to others."

Dr. Shapiro said that it is the responsibility of the modern university "to ensure, in its way, that the great questions of human existence are before us for our students to understand and wrestle with... The simple fact is that we are usually more preoccupied with the discovery of new knowledge and its transmission than with ensuring that we and our students have informed conversations with ourselves and with society on the issues that really matter."

He concluded his discussion of curricular deficits by remarking: "It is critical that the educational experience of our students infuse them with an understanding of contemporary knowledge and with a sense of where they stand in the long stream of human history. It is critical that all our students comprehend the nature and promise of modern science, be at home in the world of letters, appreciate different cultures, and understand the power of the creative and performing arts.

"Over and above all of this, however, it is also critical that our students leave our campus with an ability and a desire to engage in moral discourse required to give greater meaning to our national life."

Turning again to his own presidency, and using the nominative plural as he did so, President Shapiro said: "It is our turn to ensure that Princeton creates and sustains an educational and scholarly environment that invests meaning in all that we and our students do. It is our turn to combine tradition and thoughtful change in a fashion that advances our frontiers of knowledge and understanding and that also speaks to the bonds that ultimately define our humanity.

"It is now our season of responsibility," he said.

Festive Luncheon. The opportunity for segments of the University community other than the trustees to play a role in the installation came at the luncheon in Jadwin Gym, where green astroturf laid over the gym floor, clusters of orange and black balloons, dozens of potted trees, and all the class banners contributed to a festive atmosphere. Undergraduates, Plasma Physics Lab physicists, campus proctors, maintenance men, office support staff and librarians milled about the several serving stations.

After most of the 4,000 guests had filled their plates at least once, Dean of the Faculty Aaron Lemonick emceed the ceremonies in a lighter vein designed to welcome the new president and his wife into the community. Speaking for the faculty, English Professor John V. Fleming warned the Shapiros that the faculty "love our university with the indiscreet passion of the middle-aged" and he expected they would seek "our consultative advice."

Prof. Fleming presented each of the Shapiros with "a fundamental artifact — the book," printed on his own press and inscribed with "the loyal and affectionate greetings of the faculty." Retiring Vice President for Administrative Affairs Anthony Maruca, speaking for the staff, joked that two hours off on Friday for lunch could become a tradition. Describing the origins of the Cane Spree tradition at Princeton, he presented the Shapiros with two ivory handled canes from the 1860's and said they could use them to ward off protesting students and faculty raiders from other universities.

Richard Scribner, Class of 1958 and president of the Alumni Council, alluded to high-placed alumni in the Defense Department, State Department and Library of Congress without naming Frank Carlucci, George Schultz and James Billington, all Princeton graduates. He warned the Shapiros they would get letters on any subject from alumni, whom he characterized as "this strange, wonderful, fervently devoted body" and presented President Shapiro with a black megaphone with an orange P so that he could make himself heard.

Other gifts included a copy of treatises setting forth proposals for the graduate college and outlining the West-Wilson controversy over its location by a graduate student, who alluded to the difficulties of graduate housing in her talk.

Don Lu, a senior and president of the undergraduate student council, gave President Shapiro a bell forged out of a Nassau Hall bell clapper stolen in 1888. The president responded by noting "the overwhelming warmth of welcome" that had been extended and thanking everyone for coming.

OBITUARIES

Walter P. Golden, 77, a lifelong Princeton resident, died January 8 at Princeton Medical Center.

Mr. Golden was the vice president of Golden Construction Co., which was engaged in residential and commercial construction in the Princeton area for 30 years. Later, as executor of his father's estate he became a professional landlord, an occupation he pursued for 35 years.

Mr. Golden served in the Army in World War II, enlisting as a private and rising to the rank of lieutenant colonel at the time of his discharge in 1946. He served in the South Pacific with the Aviation Battalion of the Army Corps of Engineers.

Surviving are his wife, Betty J. Macdonald Golden; a daughter, Mrs. Paul J. Koether of Princeton; a son, Chris Golden of Princeton; four brothers, John H. of Boca Raton, Fla., Philip J. Jr. and Lawrence Golden, both of Princeton and Charles F. Golden of Yardsville; and a sister, Mrs. George Regensburg of Glassboro.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Paul's Church with burial in Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Va. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, PO Box 529, Princeton 08542.

———

Thomas W. Kelly, 41, of Princeton, died January 8 at Robert Wood Johnson University Medical Center, New Brunswick. Associated with Merrill Lynch for the last 14 years, he was a vice president and manager of Merrill Lynch's financial consultant training.

Born in Dearborn, Mich., Mr. Kelly had lived in Princeton for the past 2½ years. A graduate of Michigan State University, he served with the U.S. Army in Vietnam and had been awarded the Bronze Star.

Surviving are his fiance, Carin Preston of Princeton and his mother, Janette Zart of Dearborn.

A Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated in Dearborn, followed by entombment in Holy Sepulchre Mausoleum in Southfield, Mich. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to the Winthrop H. Smith Foundation, c/o Richard Hudachek, Merrill Lynch, One Liberty Plaza, N.Y., N.Y., 10080.

Wilbert E. Moore, 73, a distinguished sociologist who spent 27 years on the faculty at Princeton University, died December 29 in Denver, Colo., after a long illness. He was professor emeritus of sociology at the University of Denver at the time of his death.

Prof. Moore was born in Elma, Washington, in 1914. He graduated summa cum laude from Linfield College (Ore.) in 1935, and earned a master's degree with honors from the University of Oregon. In 1939, Prof. Moore was awarded a second master's degree from Harvard, where he also received his Ph.D. in 1940. After teaching at Harvard and at Penn State, he came to Princeton in 1943 as a research assistant in the Office of Population Research.

He was appointed assistant professor of economics and social institutions in 1945 and subsequently, when appointed associate professor of sociology, was one of the founding members of the Sociology Department. He served as a full professor of sociology from 1951 to 1964, teaching graduate courses in social theory, population research and comparative labor systems, in addition to a wide range of undergraduate courses.

His research included migration problems in Latin America and industrial relations in Mexico, among other topics. He was particularly interested in social change, the effects of industry on society, the effects of laws on society, stratification, modernization and migration.

In 1964 he joined the Russell Sage Foundation in New York City, where he was involved in advanced research and in introducing the social sciences in law schools. Although commuting to New York, he continued to teach at Princeton as a visiting lecturer with the rank of professor until 1970, when he accepted an appointment at the University of Denver as professor of sociology and law.

Prof. Moore was a former president of the American Sociological Association and last September received the highest honor bestowed by the Association, the "Career of Distinguished Scholarship Award." He wrote ten books and hundreds of articles, many of which were translated into different languages.

He once wrote that his career had been marked by "a commitment to a calling to do good work and a pressure to publish or perish. To keep me from writing would requiring barring my access to flat surfaces and instruments usable for making marks. I have constructed much of my world with words and around the possibly false conviction that words reach farther and last longer in their written form."

Dr. Moore is survived by his wife, Jeanne, two daughters and a grandson.

A memorial service was held in the Evans Chapel at the University of Denver's main campus. Memorial contributions may be made to scholarship fund he set up for students in the University of Denver Sociology Department.

University Chapel Dean Borsch Bishop of Los Angeles Diocese

Dean Frederick H. Borsch

Dean of the Princeton University Chapel Frederick H. Borsch was elected Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Los Angeles last Friday.

Dean Borsch was chosen on the third ballot, which is unusual in that elections of bishops in the Episcopal Church generally take many ballots, and sometimes several days, to accomplish, according to a spokeswoman in the Diocese of New Jersey. Four others were competing for the post vacated by the death of Bishop Robert Rusack in July of 1986. They included three clergymen from the East coast and a priest from the Los Angeles Diocese.

Dean Borsch's election must go through the formality of approval by a majority of the Church's 118 dioceses in the United States, a process that is expected to take several months. He expects to be leaving Princeton in late April or May, and perhaps to be consecrated in June.

The 82-year-old Diocese of Los Angeles is the most populous and fastest growing Episcopal diocese in the nation. It has 80,000 members and comprises six counties. Commenting on his election, Dean Borsch said, "There are many challenges in the Diocese of Los Angeles, and I look forward to working with the parishes there in their ministries of worship, community building and outreach."

Strong Background. Dean Borsch, 52, has a strong background as a theologian, author of 11 books and numerous articles, educator and administrator. He came to Princeton in 1981 after spending nine years as president, dean and professor of New Testament at the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, a member school of the Graduate Theological Union in Berkeley, Calif.

Born in Chicago, he received his B.A. from Princeton in 1957, majoring in English literature. He went from Princeton to Oxford University where he received a B.A. in theology in 1959, and an M.A. in 1963. He returned to the United States to earn an S.T.B. degree at General Theological Seminary in New York City in 1960, the year he was ordained in the Episcopal Church.

After serving as curate in a church in Evanston, Ill., for three years, he returned to England to teach and to earn his Ph.D. at the University of Birmingham. He taught at Seabury-Western Theological Seminary and at General Seminary before assuming his duties in Berkeley in 1972.

Dean Borsch serves on the Executive Council of the Episcopal Church in the United States and is one of three Americans serving on the Anglican Consultative Council. A priest, bishop and a lay person from each country in the worldwide Anglican Communion serve on this council, and Dean Borsch is the priest representative from this country.

Key Positions. He is also Theological Consultant of the 1988 Lambeth Conference Planning Committee. Bishops from the worldwide Anglican Communion are elected to the Lambeth Conference, which is held every 10 years.

Dean Borsch's wife, Barbara, serves the New Jersey Diocese — the sixth largest Episcopal diocese in the nation — as administrator of the Diocesan Commission on Ministry. As such she is a member of the Bishop's staff and oversees the process of clergy ordination on behalf of the commission. "Their departure as a couple creates significant losses here," said Sarah Antin, interim editor of the diocesan newspaper.

RELIGION

In what may be his first official statement since being sworn into office last Friday, Princeton University President Harold T. Shapiro said Dean Borsch's election "reflects not only on his remarkable personal qualities, but on his accomplishments as Dean of the Chapel at Princeton. In his efforts to encompass a variety of religious traditions on this campus, he has served Princeton with distinction and grace."

President Shapiro said he wants to "consult carefully concerning the process for identifying a successor to Dean Borsch." He said he hopes to announce a plan for a search by early next week.

Bulletin Notes

The Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church will commemorate The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday on Sunday at its 11 a.m. service.

The guest preacher will be the Rev. Dr. Lawrence N. Jones, dean of the School of Divinity, Howard University. Dr. Jones is a graduate of West Virginia State College, has a master's degree in history from the University of Chicago, a bachelor of divinity from Oberlin College and a doctorate from Yale University School of Religion. He served as dean of the chapel at Fisk University and dean of students at Union Theological seminary.

Special music is planned, and a fellowship hour will follow the worship service. All are invited. For more information, call the church office at 924-1666.

The Philomusica Chamber Choir will present a concert Sunday at 4 at Messiah Lutheran Church. Entitled "The Baroque Connection," the concert will feature chorale themes by masters of the Baroque period, including J.S. Bach, Buxtehude and Pachelbel. Dennis Boyle is the conductor, with Jane Adas, cellist, and Alice Vuoculo, organist.

Tickets are available at the door. Tickets are $6 for general admission and $4 for students and senior citizens. For more information call (201) 828-0964.

The third annual Interfaith Service to commemorate the life and ministry of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. will be held Monday at 7 at First Baptist Church.

The speaker will be the Rev. Buster Soaries, an M.Div. student at Princeton Theological Seminary and assistant pastor of Shiloh Baptist Church in Trenton. The service is jointly sponsored by the Princeton Clergy Association and First Baptist Church. Members of the Clergy Association will participate in the service along with the Rev. Michael Nabors, pastor of First Baptist.

Music will be provided by two First Baptist choirs, the Gospel Choir and the Combined Choir. The offering will be divided between the United Negro College Fund and the Concerned Black Parents and Citizens of Princeton. This organization gives a $1,000 Martin Luther King Jr. scholarship to a graduating senior at Princeton High School.

The Rev. Mr. Nabors advises those who are planning to attend the service to come early to find a parking place near the church. Parking is "a serious problem," he said, now that the Hulfish North construction is under way on former parking lots used by the church for Sunday services.

The Hopewell Council of Churches will offer a special service of worship Sunday at 7:30 p.m. to celebrate the life and ministry of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. The service will be held at the Second Calvary Baptist Church on Columbia Avenue, Hopewell.

The Princeton University Chapel will celebrate the life and ministry of The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. at a worship service on Sunday at 11. The Princeton University Gospel Ensemble will provide special music and The Rev. Dr. Eugene Y. Lowe Jr., dean of students at Princeton University, will preach on "A Too Infrequent Vision."

A 1971 graduate of Princeton, Dean Lowe, who is an Episcopal priest, received master of divinity and doctor of philosophy degrees from Union Theological Seminary in New York. Before going to Union, Dean Lowe worked for two years at the St. Agatha Home for Children. From 1978-83 he served as an assistant minister at Calvary/St. George's Episcopal Church in New York.

As dean of students at Princeton, a position he has held since 1983, Dean Lowe is responsible for the residential life of Princeton's 4,500 undergraduates. Also a member of the Department of Religion, he teaches American religious history as well as the history of the Reformation.

MARKHAM SQUARE

This attractive Hillier designed townhouse complex is in the quiet yet convenient Queenston neighborhood of the Borough. This unit contains a dramatic two-story living room w/fireplace, a dining room or family room w/balcony, completely modern kitchen, master suite w/bath and guest closet space, plus two other bedrooms & bath. Outdoor terrace w/balcony, basement & garage. Small private fenced garden area. $299,000

PRINCETON AREA

This custom house in nearby Montgomery is in a beautiful and secluded setting. A brook crossed by a bridge runs through the sylvan setting. There are mature plantings and several terraces, one with a goldfish pond. The house includes 3 fireplaces, 4 bedrooms, 3½ baths, a large family room, living room, dining room, a study or 5th bedroom, a kitchen with pantry, front and back entries, all contained on one floor. A circular drive leads to the house and adjacent 2 car garage. $399,000

OBER ROAD

A creative and thorough renovation of this spacious one and one half story house is now nearing completion. The neighborhood is special — located on the west side midway between Springdale Golf Course and the Institute For Advanced Study — and the site is spectacular. Almost an acre w/tall shade trees, birch trees, decorative shrubs plus a patio, new deck and 20'x40' inground pool w/heated spa. The first floor interior includes a two story living room 14'x27', gallery, lovely new kitchen w/Mexican tile floors, Corian counters & top of the line appliances, dining room, study, garden room, master bedroom suite including a master bath w/jacuzzi plus two other bedrooms and bath. Upstairs, a loft studio overlooking the living room and fourth bedroom w/bath. New 2 car garage w/automatic openers. Many other features and materials such as skylights, alarm systems, special Swedish floors, etc. Come look now. $785,000

WESTERN PRINCETON

This rambling one floor house is sited on 1.5 very private acres with access from a private tree shaded lane. An interesting floor plan includes both a library and large studio plus a living room with fireplace and dining "L", convenient kitchen, a master bedroom with its own bath and two other bedrooms and bath. A flagstone patio overlooks the sweeping rear lawn, and a picturesque in-ground pool completes the tranquil setting. All only five minutes from Palmer Square. $445,000

BROOKSTONE

Picturesque and practical this spacious family house combines a convenient location just two miles from town with a private, tranquil setting of two plus acres including a large pond and abundant trees and flowers. Constructed by one of Princeton's quality builders, the house contains ample living room w/fireplace, dining room w/doors to a screened porch, large family kitchen, powder room, family room w/fireplace, six bedrooms and three full baths plus a large basement, two car garage and storage attic. $695,000

STOCKTON STREET

A quaint very early Colonial cottage located in what was known as "Stony Brook", Princeton's first settlement. Squarish living room 13x15, dining area, step-down study with fireplace, small but efficient kitchen, convenient back entryway. Upstairs, two bedrooms and a full bath. Two car detached garage. Picturesque Stony Brook flows along the west boundary of the exceptional 1.11 acre lot. There are lawn areas, flower gardens and large shade trees plus a flagstone terrace from which to enjoy the whole scene. $230,000

This beautiful Williamsburg Colonial, a Thompson design, has everything — all the amenities for gracious living and one of Princeton's most desired locations — near the Institute. Elegant living areas include a delightful family room, solarium and cherry panelled library with a third fireplace. An adjoining bath with 2 dressing rooms serves the free form pool in its secluded wooded setting. $795,000

A luxurious expanded master suite makes this dramatic contemporary even more exciting. High on a hillside in western Princeton, it is completely secluded by a long driveway and a profusion of trees and shrubs. An iron gate opens to a walled court with circular brick terrace beyond. The generous use of glass throughout the house and spectacular garden room brings the outside beauty in and creates light, bright rooms. $495,000

"Brookmill" an enchanting estate in West Amwell with a beautiful old house circa 1819 completely remodeled and updated with charming living areas, 5 bedrooms, 4½ baths and a restauranteur's kitchen. Also included on the thirteen plus picturesque acres are a pond, waterfall, pool with millhouse-cabana, tennis court, stable and caretaker's cottage. $1,100,000

Wood Haven — once a hunting lodge. Even then, the rustic log cabin exterior belied the magnificence of the "Great Hall" — a huge room whose walls and towering arched ceiling of carved natural oak and massive fireplace create a feeling of grandeur. A turret room is one of the delightful features of the other areas in the original house. A later addition provides two luxurious bedrooms with baths. Eighteen beautiful acres also include guest/caretaker cottage, garages, pool, barn with stalls and fenced pastures. Truly a one-of-a-kind property in nearby Hopewell Township. $1,500,000

Seclusion — so important as we seek an escape from this busy world! This charming Cape guarantees it — in a wooded setting of 1.6 acres on a wooded cul-de-sac in a desirable wooded area of Princeton Township. The two story foyer opens to gracious living areas, master bedroom and bath, den/bedroom and half bath on first floor. Three bedrooms and bath on second. Finished basement with wet bar. $525,000

It should be zoned "Recreational"! A curving drive through a park-like area winds past a tennis court with viewing stand and a picturesque bridge to this California contemporary house. Glass walls create light-filled rooms including a dramatic 2 story atrium, four bedrooms, 2½ baths and a family room. All on 4 plus acres in East Amwell Township. $475,000

FIRESTONE COURT
The Newest Centrally Located Townhouses In Princeton

Tucked into an interior cul-de-sac just one block from Firestone Library are five new townhouses situated around a paved courtyard. They are imaginative, well-built and include good-sized living rooms and master bedroom suites. Unit five which is now available features a solarium, living room with fireplace, efficient modern kitchen and a spacious master bedroom as well as guest bedroom and studio. It's an unexpected delight with steeply sloped gabled and chimneyed roofs and oak entry ways. To paraphrase a wonderful reporter they look like something out of Dickens, as if they belong more properly in London.

Electromagnetic Slingshots on the Moon Just One Idea of Space Studies Institute

When Astronaut Sally Ride recommended in September that a lunar outpost be established by the year 2000, her words were music to the ears of the people at the Space Studies Institute (SSI).

Just a month later, NASA President Dr. James Fletcher talked about lunar colonies at an international conference in Brighton, England. He paused to acknowledge Gerard O'Neill, founder of SSI, and said that the colonies will be the precursor of space colonies of the type that were proposed by Dr. O'Neill in the mid-1970s.

Dr. Fletcher told the assembled members of the International Astronautical Federation that the first of the free-flying space colonies would provide a "near-perfect, self-sufficient environment for about 10,000 people. Subsequent models would be much bigger — for 100,000 or more — and range several tens of miles long, with mountains, clouds, streams and trees."

The remarks by Dr. Ride and Dr. Fletcher provided a boost of encouragement to SSI, which has been deeply involved in lunar-related research since its founding in 1977.

"It costs $5,000 a pound to put things into orbit around the earth," says SSI executive vice president Greg Maryniak. "We can use materials already in space to begin with."

He explains that SSI has demonstrated key technologies needed to allow space pioneers to live off the land from space resources without relying on costly resupply from earth.

The moon, says the breezy, informal man who seems to have retained a boy's wonder and excitement about space, is a good source of space materials. This assertion ties in with the research that has been done under the SSI umbrella for the past ten years. There is, for example,the "1988 Lunar Systems Study," the "Lunar Polar Probe," "The Lunar Prospector" and "Lunar Glass Pilot Plant" — to name only a few.

SSI founder Gerard O'Neill is professor emeritus at Princeton University and a member of President Reagan's National Commission on Space. His private, non-profit institute, employing six people in a small office just outside the town of Rocky Hill, is headquarters for coordinating space research under way around the world.

In the Forefront. "When our people proposed the idea of using space resources, people said we were really brain damaged," said Dr. Maryniak. "Now it's a major component of proposals about what we should do in space."

Dr. Maryniak sees space pioneers as psychological descendents of past explorers. "When the New World was discovered, very few people ventured forth into it, " he says. "But the very act created the Renaissance."

SSI has accomplished a great many of its basic research goals in its first decade, says Dr. Maryniak, including a way to get materials off the moon through electromagnetic slingshots.

SSI's work has reduced the length of these electromagnetic catapults from five miles to about 500 feet. Three working models have been constructed at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Princeton University.

"It is possible," says Dr. Maryniak, "to launch materials from the moon for less than one twentieth of the energy required for earth launching."

SSI has also designed a solar power satellite that can be built from lunar materials at a fraction of the cost of an Earth-launched version.

SSI researchers disagree with advocates of a one-shot mission to Mars, which they refer to as a "flags and footprint mission." In defense of the moon as goal, Dr. Maryniak quotes planetary scientists who have theorized, since the 1950s, that the moon's poles may contain a treasure trove of frozen water in permanently shadowed regions.

Last year, SSI unveiled plans for a lunar prospector which could locate this hidden ice for less than the cost of a single communications satellite.

Also, says Dr. Maryniak, the moon is only a three-day trip, and equipment can be operated by a radio signal from Earth. Such a signal can't reach much beyond the distance to the moon.

"We are," he says, "creating tools and techniques to enable people in the near future to live off the land from the moon."

The Sky's Not the Limit. There is still a sense of unlimited future possibilities at SSI, where Prof. O'Neill sees its first goal as the completion of the hardware research that will make possible the productive use of resources in space. Its second goal is to bring about the formation of a private or government program, in the United States or abroad, to exploit those resources carefully and without environmental damage.

"Once those critical steps are taken," writes Prof. O'Neill, "we at SSI feel that the construction of human colonies in space will be an inevitable result, and with it the opening of a new ecological range for humanity.

"That range will consist at first of the orbital space between the Earth and the moon, then will expand over several decades to include our entire Solar System. Eventually, on a time scale of one or two centuries, that breakout onto the High Frontier will extend to other star systems."

In the 70s, the era Dr. Maryniak refers to as "the dark ages of space," SSI took its dreams to the people. For $25 a year, anyone can become part of SSI and help support its research. All members receive a bi-monthly newsletter, The SSI Update.

The location of SSI just minutes from Princeton is no accident. Dr. Maryniak says there are people in Princeton who possess the ability to see past conventional wisdom, and mentions Freeman Dyson as one in particular.

"It took people like Dyson and O'Neill to get started," he says. "The general day-to-day wisdom seems so contrary to our notions. But we think people are beginning to understand they are not one little planet alone by itself."

SSI has come a long way from its beginnings when, says Dr. Maryniak, "People would sort of publicly pat us on the back, and the feeling was, 'you're a nice guy, but you're crazy.'

"Now people are singing our song," he says with a smile. "We're not singing solo any more."

—Myrna K. Bearse

Space Institute's Charter

The Institute's primary purpose is to open, for all humanity, the High Frontier of space. That goal includes (1) using space resources of materials and energy productively, for human benefit; (2) generating wealth from space resources, to improve the human condition, both for those who live on the Earth, and for those who will live in space (3) building Earth-like habitats in space, to expand the ecological range of humanitiy initally to the space of the Earth-Moon system, later throughout the Solar System, and ultimately perhaps throughout our galaxy.

New York Production Is Hoped for New Play

Three Ways Home, a new play by Casey Kurtti, will have its professional debut Wednesday, January 20, on the stage of McCarter Theatre.

Director Chris Silva is now seeking funding to move the play to New York. If he succeeds, Ms. Kurtti will join the list of playwrights whose work has premiered at McCarter and gone on to Broadway and Off-Broadway theaters. Perhaps the best known of these is Thornton Wilder, whose play Our Town had its world premiere performance at McCarter in 1938. Others include Play Memory by Joanna Glass, directed by Harold Prince; Angel City by Sam Shepard; and Loundry ond Bourbon by James McLure.

Most recent is The Boys Next Door by Tom Griffin, which was discovered by the Sandra Moscovitz of the McCarter Literary Department and Robert Lanchester, associate artistic director. Mr. Griffin's play was read in the Playwrights-at-McCarter series in May 1985, went on to the main stage in June, 1986, and is now playing in New York at Lamb's Theater. Norman Jewison will produce and direct the film version for MGM.

Ms. Kurtti, the author of Three Ways Home, began her theatrical career as a directing intern at Theater Genesis, one of the original Off-Off Broadway theaters. She was looking for an original play to direct but could not afford to commission a work, so she ended up writing it herself. The result was Catholic School Girls, which opened at the Douglas Fairbanks Theatre in New York, and she has been writing ever since.

She had gotten away from writing plays, however, until she met Chris Silva, co-director of New Writers at the Westside, an organization that commissions and develops new plays. Mr. Silva encouraged Ms. Kurtti to get back to playwriting, and since their meeting she has written seven plays and is currently working on a musical, commissioned for a production at a commercial theater in New York for the 1988/89 season. Ms. Kurtti and Mr. Silva were married in 1985 and have a young sun.

In 1986, Mr. Silva, in his role of co-producer of New Writers, commissioned Ms. Kurtti to write a play on the subject of faith. The result was Three Ways Home, which Mr. Silva has directed in various workshop productions. He will also direct the play at McCarter and is spearheading the effort (in conjunction with New Writers) to fund an Off-Broadway production.

So far, he has raised enough money to cover the start-up costs, and is now seeking additional funding. The cost of producing a play Off-Broadway, which includes three weeks of preview performances, is about $250,000.

Three Ways Home is the bittersweet story of three characters. Sharon is a young woman who becomes a volunteer for the Bureau of Child Welfare in New York. She is assigned to be the "friend" of Dawn, a tough, street-wise welfare mother, whose teenage son Frankie attempts to escape reality through the fantasy world he creates for himself around the X-MEN comic book series.

The Stage Two production at McCarter Theatre will present the most up-to-date version of the script, which is still undergoing development. The purpose of Stage Two is to allow playwrights the opportunity to refine their work as well as to expose audiences to new and experimental works.

A lecture on Three Ways Home, free of charge and open to the public, will be given on Monday, January 18, at 8. Performances begin on Wednesday, January 20, and run through Sunday, January 31. Tickets are $7.50. Call the box office at 683-8000 for reservations and further information.

"The Gin Game" Opens Friday at Off-Broadstreet

The Gin Game, D.L. Coburn's Pulitzer Prize winning comedy-drama, will open Friday at the Off-Broadstreet Theatre in Hopewell.

June Connerton and Herbert McAneny will portray the two residents of an old folks home who are drawn together in a casual game of gin rummy. With each hand dealt, they become progressively more revealing of their personalities and their past lives. The curmudgeon Weller Martin, played by Mr. McAneny, interupts his customary solitaire to coerce a timid and prim Fonsia Dorsey, played by Ms. Connerton, to join him in gin rummy. A self-appointed expert, Weller begins the game feeling superior and ends in rage at his inability to win.

Ms. Connerton and Mr. McAneny are well known to area theater-goers. They performed together at Off-Broadstreet in On Golden Pond, and Mr. McAneny also was seen in Mass Appeal. The Gin Gome was inspired by the author's visit to an aunt in a nursing home and took five years for Coburn to complete. The play was first presented at the American Theatre Arts building in Los Angeles in 1976, and by October of the following year it was being performed on Broadway, with Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn as Fonsia and Weller.

Robert Thick, co-producer at the Off-Broadstreet Theatre, is directing the production, which opens Friday, with performances Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays through February 13. Friday and Saturday evenings the doors open at 7 for dessert, with curtain at 8. Sunday matinees feature dessert at 1:30, with curtain at 2:30.

Admission Friday and Sunday is $13.75; Saturday admission is $15. The ticket price includes dessert and show. There is a senior citizen discount available for Sunday performances.

For reservations or further information call 466-2766. The Off-Broadstreet Theatre is located at 5 South Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell.

Auditions Are Announced For Woody Allen Play

The Princeton Community Players have announced auditions for the final show of their 1987/88 season, Ploy It Again, Sam, by Woody Allen.

Auditions will be held in the Triangle-Broadmead Theatre, 171 Broadmead, Saturday from 2 to 5 and Sunday evening from 7 to 10. Call-backs will be announced.

The cast calls for three men, ages 20 to 40, and nine women, ages 18 to 40. The principle characters include a "Woody Allen"-type male lead, a neurotic "Diane Keaton"-type female, and "Humphrey Bogart." All parts are open. Those auditioning will be asked to do a cold reading from the script.

Play It Again, Sam will be presented March 11, 12, 18, 19, 25 and 26 at the Triangle-Broadmead Theatre. David Callaghan of Lawrenceville will direct; Debbie Lawler, also of Lawrenceville, is the producer; and Rufus Gibson, of Trenton, will be the stage manager.

"The Meeting" to Open At George St. Playhouse

George Street Playhouse of New Brunswick and the Ensemble Theatre Company of Newark will present Jeff Stetson's play The Meeting in GSP's Stage II. The production will open Friday and run through February 21. Stage II is the 90-seat second stage theater at George Street Playhouse.

Set in February 1965, The Meeting dramatizes an imagined encounter between two of America's most influential black leaders — the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and Malcolm X. Winner of eight NAACP Theatre Awards including best play and best writer, and nominated for six Audelco Awards, The Meeting raises questions about the turbulent decade of the 1960's and the civil rights movement that forever changed America.

The Meeting will be directed by GSP acting artistic director Maureen Heffernan. Ms. Heffernan has directed numerous past GSP productions.

Portraying the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. will be Marvin Kazembe-Jefferson, co-artistic director and co-founder of the Ensemble Theatre Company. Mr. Jefferson was last seen in Ensemble Theatre Company's production of Kabnis, which he also directed, at the Newark Community School of the Arts.

Last spring, Mr. Jefferson directed and performed in William Shakespeare's Richard III, produced by Ensemble Theatre Company and hosted by George Street Playhouse

The role of Black Muslim leader Malcolm X will be played by Reginald C. Brown, a co-artistic director of Ensemble Theatre Company and a resident of New Brunswick. Mr. Brown's most recent appearance was in Ensemble Theatre Company's Kabnis, and his credits include the title role in Richard III.

Musical 'Purlie' Coming To Mercer Cty. College

The musical Purlie will be presented at the Kelsey Theater, Mercer County Community College, on Friday, January 22, at 8.

Based on the play Purlie Victorious by Ossie Davis, the musical is set in the deep south in the days just before the Civil Rights movement. The story takes place on the Georgia estate of Ol' Cap'n Cotchipee, whose sentimental longing for the age of slavery leads him to keep his black workers down through low wages and the high prices at the plantation store.

Purlie Victorious Judson, a preacher, hatches a plan to win back a family inheritance being held by Ol' Cap'n. Purlie wants the money to reopen his grandfather's church and from its pulpit lead his people into "Freedom's Promised Land."

The success of the scheme depends on the acting talent of Lutiebelle Jenkins, a sweet-souled but naive country girl who is in love with Purlie. Pandemonium reigns when he presents her to the Cap'n as the long-lost relative who has come to collect her rightful inheritance.

Tickets are $14 for adults, $11 for senior citizens and students, and $7 for children 12 and under. For information or to order tickets by phone, call 586-4695. MasterCard and Visa are accepted.

AT RICHARDSON: The Ze'eva Cohen Dancers performing "Rainwood," one of the four works from their repertory which they will perform Friday and Saturday at 8 in Richardson Auditorium. (John Budde photo)

Two Perfomances Offered By Ze'eva Cohen Dancers

Ze'eva Cohen, head of the dance program at Princeton University and artistic director of her own New York company, will offer a special concert on January 15 and 16 at Alexander Hall. The professional company, known as Ze'eva Cohen and Dancers, will present a program of four works from their repertory, beginning at 8 each night.

The evening is divided into two parts, "Environments" and "Heritage." In "Environments" the dancers explore what it is like to live in two very different worlds. In the first dance, Walkman Variations, which is set to music by the Pointer Sisters, the dancers respond to the high intensity of an urban environment. Seemingly electrified by the music, they dart about the stage together and then in groups, like electronic creatures of the contemporary, high pressure world.

As a counterpoint to Walkman, Rainwood is a forest ritual set to the sounds of birds, frogs and insects. The female dancers portray both the forest world and the creatures moving in it, and they alternate between unison movement and counterpoint.

The second half of the concert is devoted to two works celebrating the Mediterranean origins of the Western world. The first, Sephardic Songs, is in three sections and is based on images evoked by 15th-century Sephardic music as recorded by the Waverly Consort. This is followed by Ode, a piece originally choreographed for the Chicago Repertory Dance Ensemble in 1985.

The work depicts an encounter between modern youth and a figure from the classical past. Nancy Goldering has designed a set that suggests a contemporary Mediterranean beach, to which the spirits of the past are summoned.

Ms. Cohen was for many years a solo dance artist. She toured throughout the United States, Europe and Israel. Since 1983 she has been artistic director of Ze'eva Cohen and Dancers.

Her company has performed at the Joyce Theater, the Lincoln Center Out-of-Doors Season, the Riverside Dance Festival and elsewhere in New York. In addition, the company has performed at festivals, universities and concert halls throughout the East and Midwest.

Since 1969 Ms. Cohen has supervised the dance program at Princeton University. She also teaches choreography at the Alvin Ailey American Dance Center and at the Juilliard School.

Tickets for the concert are $6 for adults and $4 for students and seniors. They may be obtained from the Box office before performances or by calling 452-5200.

Rock Show on Dinosaurs Due At Kelsey Theater

A performance of Dinosaur Rock, a contemporary musical using magic and oversized puppets to teach children about the demise of the dinosaur, will be given Saturday, January 23, at 2 and 4 in Kelsey Theater on the West Windsor campus of Mercer County Community College. Tickets are $6.

Dinosaur Rock features Professor Jones, a paleontologist who can bring dinosaurs to life using their bones. The walking, talking, dancing dinosaurs — from a diplodocus egg to a 15-foot long Stella Stegosaurus — are the creation of puppeteer Ingrid Crepeau. In performance, Ms. Crepeau operates six dinosaurs and one flying reptile.

Ms. Crepeau has exhibited her puppets at the Smithsonian Institute and has created and operated puppets for the Ford Theater's production of A Christmas Carol. She has won two regional Emmy awards for her puppets in a television show called Sneakers.

Dinosaur Rock began as an album by the same name that was selected by Parent's Choice Magazine and the American Library Association for their best record lists of 1984. Michele Valerie and Michael Stein, who co-produced the album, adapted their songs to the stage for the opening of the Smithsonian's renovated Dinosaur Hall.

Irish Performer lo Sing For Folk Music Society

The Princeton Folk Music Society will feature Robbie O'Connell in a folk music concert on Friday at 8 p.m. at Christ Congregation, Walnut Lane and Houghton Road.

Mr. O'Connell was born in Waterford, Ireland. His mother was a member of the famous Clancy family. By age 17, he was a member of a folk group which won the Kilkenny International Folk Competition. Following this, he spent some time touring the folk clubs of England.

In 1973 he moved to the United States, where he established himself as a singer. In 1977, he began to tour the United States as a member of the Clancy Brothers. In 1979 he returned permanently to America and still tours three times a year with the Clancy Brothers.

For the past three years, Mr. O'Connell has toured extensively with Mick Moloney and Jimmy Keane, and also with Green Fields of America playing concerts, colleges and festivals all over the United States.

He sings of lovers and renegades, work and drinking, and with a vitality and a freshness that leaves one with the feeling that, despite its ups and downs, life can be a lot of fun.

Admissions are $5 for adults, $4 for students, $4 for Society members, $2 for children and senior citizens. There are no advance sales. Memberships are available at the door. For further information, call 799-0009.

Openings for Singers In a Cappella Group

Mostly a Cappella, a choral ensemble based in Hopewell, has openings for singers in all sections. Sight-reading ability is not a requirement, but singers should have a good sense of pitch and rhythm, and be able to pick up a tune quickly. The group rehearses weekly on Tuesday evenings in Hopewell.

Mostly a Cappella plans to perform a wide range of a cappella literature this season including motets and madrigals, spirituals and jazz, along with several works by contemporary New Jersey composers.

Auditions will be held through the end of January. For information call the director, Norm Hurst, at 466-9465.

NJSO Chamber Concert Features Violin Soloist

Violinist Ida Levin will appear with the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra in a chamber orchestra concert Friday, January 22, at 8:30 in Richardson Auditorium. The concert will be led by Michael Pratt, associate conductor of the NJSO and conductor of the Princeton University Orchestra.

The program features Samuel Barber's Violin Concerto with Ms. Levin as soloist, Stravinsky's Octet, Wagner's Siegfried Idyll and Schubert's Symphony No. 3 in D Major. Ms. Levin was selected by Rudolf Serkin in 1981 to perform with him in a joint recital for President and Mrs. Reagan as part of the series "In Performance at the White House," broadcast nationally on PBS.

Subsequently she made recital debuts at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., and Town Hall in New York City. Since then she has performed in recital as part of the Distinguished Artist Series at the 92nd Street Y in New York and is frequently heard at the Marlboro Festival

Mr. Pratt, now in his third season with the NJSO, has led the orchestra in subscription concerts, summer pops concerts, chamber orchestra concerts and numerous youth concert performances around the state. He is co-founder, artistic director and conductor of the June Opera Festival of New Jersey as well as a lecturer in music at Princeton University.

Tickets are $10 and $15 with student and senior citizen rush tickets at $5 one-half hour before performance times, subject to availability. Tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance from the NJSO box office by calling (201) 624-8203 or toll-free 1-800-ALLEGRO.

Music Lovers Are Invited To Support N.J. Symphony

The New Jersey Symphony League's annual membership drive is under way. Music lovers are invited to consider membership in the Princeton/Mercer chapter which offers social and educational events in support of the orchestra.

Robbie O'Connell

The chapter hosts the annual children's concert and plans the July 4th celebration pops concert held in Princeton each year. The chapter offers preconcert lectures and dinners, and receptions which offer opportunities to meet the orchestra's conductor, guest artists and musicians.

Anyone interested in joining the league should call Sharon Bilanin at 924-6168.

DISQUIETING IMAGERY: "Riot," a lithograph by New York painter Leon Golub, is included in the "Major Marks" exhibition at AT&T. The show, which explores different approaches in contemporary printmaking, continues through February 3.

ART

'Major Marks' at AT&T: An Eclectic Print Show

The vitality of printmaking in the '80s is vividly attested to by the latest exhibition at AT&T's Corporate Education Center Gallery, "Major Marks: An Assemblage of Contemporary Prints." Unlike so much of the "corporate art" of today, which innocuously blends with the decor of office building lobbies, this work directly engages and challenges the viewer. On a recent afternoon, passers-by were seen stopping and puzzling over some of the prints — an indication of the success of the curator's design for the show.

Curator Pamela Moore, herself a master printmaker for five years, planned this traveling exhibition with the idea of showing a wide range of print media and individual styles. The result is a diverse array of artists and techniques, with the variety of approaches to printmaking made all the more apparent by the crowded hanging dictated by the constraints of this exhibition space. Prints by artists of international reputation hang side by side with works by less well-known artists from the New York/New Jersey area, and abrupt juxtapositions of subject matter occur as well.

The works in this show are predominantly figurative, and the anxious, disquieting imagery of the '80s is in evidence (although it is impossible to know how recent all of these prints are, since no dates have been provided on the labels or the accompanying price list).

Steve Gianakos' color lithographs, Missing Children I and Missing Children II, rework the detached, comic book imagery of '60s pop art to deal with a troubling contemporary issue. In the first of these images, which are deliberately fragmented and incomplete, a mother is shown feeding her infant, but the "baby" that she cradles in her arms is just an empty garment.

Lithography is used to very different effect in New York painter Leon Golub's Riot. Here, two vigorously drawn, menancing, almost life-size male faces confront the viewer. A stain of red across the otherwise black-and-white image adds to the atmosphere of violence. Even more disturbing is David Sandlin's He Jesus Triptych, comprised of three kitschy, light-up clocks (presumably found objects) with images of Jesus and the American eagle, overlaid by the artist with silkscreens on clear glass of anti-Christ and crude, Satanic figures.

Another use of the silkscreen technique on a surface other than paper is found in Gunars Prande's screen prints of photographic images on metal sheets. In Slugging for Jesus, the artist cryptically juxtaposes images of a molecular model and a boxing match, perhaps a commentary on the contrast between the underlying order of nature and the irrationality of human interaction.

The recently deceased German artist Joseph Beuys, known for his probing of the relationship between artist and society, is represented here by a mixed-media work, Creativity=Copital, which combines silkscreen and lithography. As in other Beuys prints, the image is that of a blackboard with scribbled notations, photographed from one of the artist's lectures. In this case, the equation CREATIVITY=CAPITAL has been "stenciled" in large red letters over the chalkboard.

Exploration of Media. The power of the print as a vehicle for social commentary is only one of the themes that emerges from the "Major Marks" Exhibition. Another is the variety of media which printmakers today are exploring. A reaction in the past decade against the impersonal, uniform editions of the '60s and early '70s, epitomized by Andy Warhol's silkscreen prints, has led to the revival of interest in unique edition prints and techniques such as woodcut and etching that allow for greater variation in surface texture. These are media which lend themselves to more intimate, personal reflection, rather than public statement.

Maria Henle's colored etchings, Ama Dablam and Thamserku, transport us to the mystical landscapes of the Himalayas. By setting a series of "windows" within a larger panorama, she provides multiple views of the landscape in its different aspects. The jeweled color which bathes the mountain valleys and the mists that hang over them is exquisite.

A sense of mystery also infuses two prints by Rimer Cadillo, Sea Shell Box and Oracular Box, in which the artist employs woodcut and intaglio (embossed) techniques to create a textured surface. In each of these images a simple box, filled with hundreds of shells in patterned rows, becomes an object of contemplation. The shells are embossed in relief in the paper, giving them the appearance of fossil traces in sandstone.

Two other woodcuts in this show, Victoria Sclafani's Lake Snow, Adirondack Mountains and Islands off Acadia, Maine, show a more traditional use of the medium, with the grain of the wood exploited to create rippling waves in the water.

The painterly direction of lithography — and the closely allied monotype print — in recent years can be seen in curator Pamela Moore's work. In fact, her prints Capehart and Figures to Reason, with their visible brushstrokes, look much like paintings on paper. Collage elements appear in Figures to Reason as well, setting up interesting spatial relationships between overlapping planes.

Ms. Moore and AT&T are to be applauded for bringing us a show that provides so much food for thought and visual enjoyment. This reviewer's one complaint is the lack of supporting information provided for the viewer. If the aim of an exhibition like this one is to educate the public to the "possibilities in techniques" and the unique sensibilities of different artists, as Ms. Moore has stated, then more detailed technical information about the works and "artistic biographies" of the printmakers involved would greatly enhance the experience for the viewer.

"Major Marks" continues at the AT&T Corporate Education Center Gallery on Carter Road in Hopewell through February 3. Gallery hours are 9 to 4 weekdays and 2 to 5 on weekends. After traveling to the Dominican Republic, the show is scheduled to end its run at John Nichols Printmakers in New York City in June, and Ms. Moore hopes to broaden its scope at that time.

Registration Has Begun At Princeton Art Ass'n

Registration is now under way for the Princeton Art Association's six-week winter session, which will begin the week of January 17.

Courses cover such subjects as drawing, watercolor, sculpture, enamelling, painting, and print making. Instructors include Geri DePaoli, Jean Lindabury, Steve Weiss, and Lilli Gettinger.

Eva Kaplan will again teach "Cartoon Capers," a course for younger children. Jean Lindabury will teach drawing for the 12 to 18 age group.

Barbara Osterman will hold a creative seminar on Sunday afternoon. Participants will bring their work and will discuss ways to communicate more than just the subject matter.

For a class schedule or information on registration, call the Princeton Art Association at 921-9173.

IT'S NEW To Us

Quality Food, Atmosphere At the Charcuterie Cafe

Since it opened last June, the Charcuterie Cafe, located in the Princeton Shopping Center, has been pleasing eager diners both with its excellent food and its charming atmosphere. The decor, with peach and green tablecloths, is a visual delight, and the uncluttered, open surroundings (even when the tables are filled) are conducive to relaxed, pleasant dining.

Owned by Norman and Paula Lavinson, who are also responsible for the very popular Princeton Charcuterie on Nassau Street, the new restaurant struck an immediate chord with Princeton diners. General manager Lynne Brighton notes that "I've even had personal letters from people who've eaten in the restaurant, and they actually thank us for opening here."

TEMPT YOUR TASTE BUDS: "Our food is absolutely the freshest and the best available and at reasonable prices," note general manager Lynne Brighton and restaurant manager Marie Roessel of the Charcuterie Cafe. The new restaurant in the Princeton Shopping Center is also admired for its pleasant atmosphere and attractive decor.

Now, she adds, it is not at all unusual to have people lined up for tables. "We want people to feel comfortable here. We want this to be a warm, friendly place, where people don't have to be in a hurry," she observes. "Making people happy and comfortable is a priority. We really care about what we offer our customers, and we'll do our best to make everything just right.

"I am especially pleased," she continues, "when someone comes in feeling grumpy, and then after a nice, enjoyable meal, leaves happy and relaxed. I feel we've really accomplished something when that happens."

Lots of Experience. Although she studied psychology and received a master's degree in counseling, Ms. Brighton's working career has been spent entirely in the restaurant business. Working as a waitress while in college in Washington, D.C., she was soon appointed manager of the restaurant. "I was a take-charge kind of person," she recalls, "and so I got noticed. I was asked my opinion, and I gave it. I was especially interested in restaurant design — where things go in the kitchen, as well as the overall flow of the restaurant. As a waitress, I could see how things could be done more efficiently."

After several years in Aspen, Colo., running her own restaurant, Ms. Brighton came back east to a management position at Scanticon. Although happy with her activities there, she did not hesitate when the Charcuterie Cafe offered her the general managership. "I wanted to get back to a personal feeling in this business, and that is possible in this type of operation. Also," she smiles, "I liked the idea of being in charge."

Although her work (overseeing the entire operation of the restaurant) is exceedingly time-consuming, Ms. Brighton also finds it very rewarding. "Every day is a little different, with different challenges and different people."

She also believes the Charcuterie Cafe is outstanding in many ways. "I love good food and good wine. I've traveled extensively here and abroad and have been in many restaurants. I have to say that I've never been in any restaurant, until now, where I really liked everything the chef prepares. Bob Spiegel is our chef, and he really is this restaurant.

"In addition," she continues, "we have a wonderful crew of people here. I've never worked with a staff I've been as proud of. We ask the waitresses for their opinions and ideas, and a lot of our very good ideas come from the staff. People feel involved in how things are run.

"Our cuisine can be described as American eclectic," she adds. "Most important, we want to be known for freshness and quality ingredients. We are very proud of our ingredients. They're our number one priority. Nothing comes out of a can. Everything is fresh."

Special Favorites. Special luncheon favorites among the customers are lemon-soy marinated chicken breast ("if it's not on the menu, people ask for it"), angel hair pasta, and "the best hamburger in town, a real Bob Spiegel special."

At dinnertime, ravioli, seafood sausage, veal chops and blackened tuna (a Cajun style dish) are very much in demand. The crabcake appetizer is a favorite of many, and it is also now available in a sandwich for lunch.

Among many scrumptious desserts, top honors in popularity go to the pecan souffle, followed closely by the chocolate mousse cake. On the lighter side, there are fruit and cheese plates.

The menu changes seasonally, and Ms. Brighton notes that the restaurant will shortly offer a new dinner menu emphasizing pasta, chicken and fish. Salad is always a popular item, too, and "The Charcuterie Sampler" gives people a chance to sample several different salads.

Private Dining Room. The restaurant offers a private dining room downstairs which seats up to 50 persons and can be rented for conventions, meetings or parties. The downstairs area also includes a lounge with a bar. Although the Charcuterie Cafe does not have a liquor license, you are invited to "bring your own," and the staff gladly provides wine buckets and opens bottles.

The downstairs "is a great room for a surprise party," explains Ms. Brighton. "We can tell people their table is ready, bring them downstairs, and then surprise them with a roomful of people." She adds that "the restaurant can also be opened Monday (the one day it is normally closed) for large groups that would like to rent it, and we will provide specialized menus."

The Charcuterie Cafe is becoming known for its catering, too, and Ms. Brighton says that "this is part of the operation we hope will grow. We can do everything from diner for two to a large party of 500, from picnics to sophisticated cocktail parties."

In addition to the restaurant, a take-out and deli section is also available. A large variety of cheeses, salads, and sandwiches (including the popular Charcuterie hero), as well as bagels and bread, is on hand, and a number of retail items, such as nuts, crackers, coffee beans, unusual gourmet salad dressings, and mustards, can be purchased.

"We have many salads and dinner entrees to take out," adds Ms. Brighton, "and we also have microwaveable containers with frozen gourmet food to go, such as spinach souffle and crabcakes."

Expanded Bakery. The bakery section is expanding, including the addition of a new pastry chef from Mother's in New Hope, and it is hard to resist the variety of mouthwatering cakes, cookies and brownies.

Prices at the Charcuterie Cafe vary, with lunches ranging from $4.25 to $9.25, dinners $5.95 to $18, Sunday brunch starting at $5.50, and sandwiches averaging $4.

If you need a pick-me-up this wintry January, a visit to the Charcuterie Cafe could be just the thing. The waitresses in their green aprons, tan trousers and ties (more formal black aprons and pants for dinner) are friendly and eager to help make your lunch or dinner a memorable experience. The shopping center is easy to get to, and, of course, parking is no problem.

Lunch and dinner, as well as brunch, are served on Sunday. Hours for lunch are 11:30 to 2:30 Tuesday through Saturday; dinner, 5:30 to 9:30 Tuesday to Thursday and Sunday, until 10:30 Friday and Saturday; and Sunday brunch 11 to 2:30.

Nassau Kitchen & Bath Offers Custom Design

A little down after the holidays? Perhaps a new look in the kitchen or bath will lift the spirits. Nassau Kitchen & Bath, located on Route 206 at Mountainview Plaza in Belle Mead, specializes in major renovations for these two rooms. Notes owner Tom Johanson, "Primarily our work is tearing out the old and replacing with the new. We do construction changes, electrical and plumbing work. It can be a real challenge. I especially like the creativity, the changes I can make to cater to the clients' needs. Each customer is different, with a different lifestyle, and each kitchen or bath has an individual look."

A Hillsborough native, Mr. Johanson has been in the industry for more than 16 years, and for the last three has operated his own business, which has grown substantially. "The age of the area is a factor in our growth," he notes. "After a number of years, people are ready to make improvements in the house and put their money back into their home."

A NEW LOOK FOR THE NEW YEAR: Pam and Tom Johanson, owners of Nassau Kitchen & Bath invite visitors to their showroom on Rte. 206 in Belle Mead. A wide variety of top-of-the-line cabinets, counters, appliances, sinks and tubs is on display, including the latest in design, style and color.

Custom design is the hallmark of Nassau Kitchen & Bath, and Mr. Johanson's wife Pam believes, "People choose to come to us because of the innovative designs, the quality of the materials and the good service. Many times, someone will have their kitchen done and then later on, decide to do the bathroom, too."

Having reached a point of no return with a worn-out kitchen or bath will bring customers in, she adds. "Most of the time, they have reached a point where they need a new oven or the kitchen cabinets look awful. They just can't put it off any longer. So they'll come into the showroom and say 'Help me! My kitchen's a mess!' "

Full Evaluation. "After they've looked at what we have," she continues, "we'll go to their house to evaluate their needs and measure the space. Then we'll draw up a plan and give them a ballpark price. We do a full evaluation of their needs, even providing a questionnaire to determine their lifestyle — for example, how many children or pets are here, what type of cooking is done in the kitchen, how heavily used is it?

"Nine times out of ten, people will want a complete change," she continues. "They've decided the room is too dark or too light or there's not enough counter space. They will often want more storage space."

The actual installation can take three to six weeks, and Mr. Johanson adds that "customers should expect a major dislocation in their lifestyle, although when we take out the old kitchen, we set up a working kitchen as soon as possible."

He also advises people to plan well in advance for a renovation. "There is a long lead time. Right now our lead time is May for orders placed now. Of course, that includes a lot of planning and budgeting before the work actually takes place," notes Mrs. Johanson.

Ease and Efficiency. Efficiency and easy care and maintenance are highly desirable in kitchens today, and Mr. Johanson says, "Often both spouses work today and people want steps to be minimized."

"I think the kitchen is the most important room in the house," adds Mrs. Johanson. "And you know how people always like to congregate there. A very popular idea now is the entertaining kitchen in which the preparation of food is part of the entertainment, when guests can participate, watch and socialize.

"Also," she comments, "there are very knowledgeable consumers out there. The trend in appliances today is to the more sophisticated. Stoves can be built in combinations of gas and glass, ovens are radiant heat or convection. There are all kinds of possibilities. Cabinets can be of different woods, stains, interiors, construction and hardware. You can have a traditional, transitional or contemporary look.

"There is also a trend toward symmetry, and a lot of attention to detail of line and flow," she continues. You can have matching panels on refrigerators and dishwashers, for example.

"Corian by du Pont is very popular right now both for kitchen and bathroom countertops," she adds. "It's almost indestructible, and it's easy care. We fabricate it and can shape it to fit anyone's space."

Formica and marble are also available, and Nassau Kitchen & Bath offers custom-made cabinets by Rutt and Crystal. Top-of-the-line appliances include stoves, ovens, dishwashers and refrigerators by Thermador, Jenn-air and Subzero and Kohler and Delta tubs, sinks and toilets are also provided.

Prices vary depending on the extent of the work involved, but a kichen renovation will start at $15,000 and a bathroom at $9,000.

If you think your bath or kitchen is ready for some serious plastic surgery, the Johansons will be delighted to help you in this transformation. Just stop in at the showroom anytime between 9 and 9 Thursday, and 10 and 3 on Saturday.

USE LOVE SEATS & SOFAS FOR HELPFUL DECORATING

One of the best ideas to help you achieve beautiful and practical decorating is to consider the many possible combinations you can have in the use of love seats and sofas.

Love seats are so practical because you can use them so many ways — by themselves, or with each other, or with a sofa or other chairs.

If you let your mind run free, or ask us for suggestions, you can realize all the exciting combinations there are, and all the places there are to use them.

And all those possibilities can really dress up a living room or a family room for you — and add conversational seating.

Not only can you explore the different combinations for using love seats and sofas, but you can find them in a variety of styles and sizes to satisfy your taste — as well as your space.

Think about using a love seat at right angles to your sofa, or facing it; or using a "U"-shaped effect of two love seats on either side of a sofa, or simply use two love seats together elsewhere in the room facing each other, or an "L"-shaped arrangement with each other or with chairs.

The possibilities are almost endless, and they can really help you. We want you to have a home that's beautiful and comfortable and we stand ready to serve you with a wonderful selection.

Tiger Hockey Takes Big Step toward Reaching Playoffs, But Dartmouth Team Has Even More Impressive Weekend

A spot in the playoffs became more of a reality, but still far from a certainty last weekend for the Princeton hockey team.

The Tigers' hopes for reaching the ECAC post-season competition for the first time in three years got a major boost when they defeated Brown and Yale on consecutive nights at Baker Rink. The Bruins fell, 3-2, on Friday, and the Elis lost, 6-4, the following evening. The pair of victories snapped a seven-game losing streak, and gave Princeton a 6-6 league record, 7-9 overall.

Anything less than a pair of triumphs over these two weak sisters, who sit at the bottom of the league standings, would have been a big disappointment. Because it has not managed to beat any of the stronger teams since an open-portunity, and picked up three points over the weekend to move into seventh place, just three points behind Princeton.

That three-point spread may seem like a lot, but Dartmouth has already beaten both Yale and Brown on the road, and should pick up four points when it plays them at home. It also has a game left with Army, where it stands at least an even chance of winning. A 4-3 upset of RPI at Troy also proves that the Big Green can pick up points in unexpected fashion.

Princeton, which will take a two-week break for exams, will have 10 games remaining on its schedule when it returns to action the last weekend in January. But it may be able to win no more than three or four of those.

The February 5 meeting with Dartmouth at Baker Rink looms as the next crucial game for the Tigers. If they can notch another victory in that one, Dartmouth will be hard pressed to overtake the Orange and Black.

Big Edge in Shots No Help. In Friday night's triumph over Brown, the shot chart for each period showed the Tigers firing the puck from every angle at the Brown goalie, Chris Harvey: 12 in the first period, 17 in the second and 13 in the third for a total of 42.

The Bruins, meanwhile, managed just 13, six in the final period, at Ron High.

The one-goal difference in the game was a credit to Harvey's ability in the nets (he's had lots of practice this season, never seeing fewer than 29 in a game). But it also showed up a weakness of Princeton's, the inability to follow up on the rebound of an initial drive. Time and again, the Orange and Black would get off a strong first shot, only to see a tantalizing opportunity for a score disappear after that.

In fact, despite the huge difference in shots, Higgins' men twice had to rally from behind in this contest. The game was not three minutes old when the Bruins' defenseman, Brad Krieck, put his team on top with a slap shot from the top of the right face-off circle that beat High.

Fortunately for Princeton, Harvey returned the favor just 37 seconds later when he let in a similar kind of stoppable shot. Defenseman Lenny Quesnelle's drive from the right point hit Harvey in the center of his pads and snuck through his legs into the goal.

The visitors took only three shots in the second period, but one found the mark at 14:19 for a 2-1 lead. This time High was victimized when Polaski coughed up the puck deep in his own end and Greg Murphy walked in on High and beat him from about 15 feet out on the right side.

Two minutes later, in a span of just 22 seconds, the Tigers rallied for the tying and winning goals, a feat that left one wondering why they had so much trouble the rest of the evening. The power play, not a big weapon for the team this season, clicked for the only time of the night when Bart Blaeser connected at 16:31. Blaeser knocked home a rebound of a shot by Kelly Szautner in the only time Princeton was able to follow up successfully on a shot.

The winning goal came 22 seconds later on the winners' best combination of the night. Immediately after the face-off, Dave Umland fed Szautner, who skated into the Brown zone and found freshman Sean Murphy skating toward the crease on the right. Murphy slapped home the puck from point blank range for the game-winner.

However, the Tigers never did manage to come up with an insurance tally in the third period, and had to hold off Brown in the final 1:45 of play when the Bruins enjoyed a two-man advantage. Mark Khozozian was whistled for charging into Harvey at 18:16, and Brown then pulled its sophomore goaltender with 1:02 left for a six-on-four advantage. A couple of nice saves by High secured the 3-2 triumph.

ing victory over Colgate, the Orange and Black must win every outing against the lesser foes.

The four-point gain has lifted coach Jim Higgins' sextet into fifth place in the standings with 12 points, but that is not expected to last. Unless Princeton can find a way to beat any of the three in its 10 remaining games, Cornell, Clarkson and RPI should overtake it.

But that still leaves eighth place, the same spot that Old Nassau and Brown battled for a year ago. This time it looks very much like Dartmouth will challenge the Tigers for that final playoff spot. The Big Green had a banner weekend at home, tying Clarkson Friday night and upsetting second-place St. Lawrence, 5-4, on Saturday. The Saints had just come off a tough loss the night before in Cambridge, where they also lost their star, Pete Lappin, to an injury. The Big Green made the most of the op-

One of the most unusual records ever set in football was this one: On Sept. 27, 1953, Bert Rechichar of the Baltimore Colts tried a field goal for the first time in his life in the National Football League, and it was good from 56 yards out to set an all-time NFL record ... Nobody up to that time had ever kicked a longer field goal in the history of the NFL, and Rechichar did it on his very first try ... And in an additional oddity, Rechichar played in the NFL for 8 years after that and never kicked one that long again!

day night for the better part of two periods.

It took some fine play by a three-year veteran, and a freshman, to lock up this triumph for Princeton. Umland, playing his fourth and final season, led some sparkling play by the second line with two goals and two assists. Newcomer Sean Murphy had four assists from his left wing spot next to Umland, tying a University record for most assists in a game. Szautner added a goal and an assist for a 10-point night for the second line and if it can continue to contribute this much, the Tigers will be a much more dangerous team. That will take some of the pressure off Messuri, who did not score a point for only the third time all season.

The action started quickly in this one with four goals, two by each side in the first eight minutes of play. Umland got the Tigers rolling at 3:33 when he worked a fine give-and-go with Szautner for a 1-0 Princeton lead.

The Bulldogs came right back with their first less than a minute later, when High could not hold on to a shot by Chris Gruber.

Yale goalie Mike O'Neill returned the favor two minutes later when he mishandled a shot by Polaski. Mark Khozozian picked up an assist, as did High, in one of the rare times when a goalie is credited with an assist.

That 2-1 lead didn't last long either. Jason O'Neill pulled the visitors even at 8:03. Princeton was able to regain the advantage when it cashed in a power-play opportunity at 14:13. Umland scored his second, off a pass by Quesnelle.

The second period was just 34 seconds old when the Elis tied the score for the third time, but the Tigers answered with their fourth 28 seconds later, and never looked back. Yale's goalie roamed too far from the net after a loose puck and fell down, leaving Jim Sourges an open net for his easy goal.

Unlike Friday, when the Tigers had to cling to their one-goal lead the rest of the game, Szautner came up with a fifth tally at 11:10, assisted by Murphy and Umland. At the same time in the third period, co-captain John Allen made it 6-3, with Murphy and Umland again setting up the score. It was Allen's first goal of his varsity career.

Play got rough and ragged near the end, with numerous penalties called on both teams. That gave Yale an opportunity to score a shorthanded goal with just three seconds left for a 6-4 final. The shot totals were much more balanced, with Princeton taking 34 and Yale 30.

PDS Hockey Beaten, 9-1 By Visiting Seton Hall

The Princeton Day hockey team is in the middle of the roughest part of its schedule at the moment, and is learning that the final score is not always indicative of how the game was played.

In their first outing after Christmas break, the Panthers lost, 9-1, to Seton Hall Prep, last Wednesday. The final result would lead one to think it was a lopsided affair, but that was not the feeling for the frozen faithful who watched the three periods of play. Seton Hall did not dominate the action, but rather had a knack for putting the puck in the net that was missing on PDS's side.

The Blue and White, now 3-2 on the year, will work hard at not getting discouraged with their progress or lack thereof in the next few games. After a game against a strong Delbarton sextet scheduled to be played this past Tuesday, coach Bill Minter's squad will take on Hill this Wednesday. The Pottstown, Pa., team is weaker than it has been in past years, but it will be plenty of competition for the Panthers. A week later, Lawrenceville and Peddie will visit the PDS rink on Wednesday and Friday, and PDS will be hard pressed to beat either team.

For the moment, Minter is trying to teach his squad to avoid giving up unneccessary goals. Seton Hall's players were faster than PDS', and on several occasions they surprised the Panther defensemen and rolled in unmolested on goalie Alan Howard.

PDS had the edge in the action in the first period, getting off 10 shots at the visitors' goalie, but when the buzzer sounded, the Panthers found themselves down, 2-0. Seton Hall fired in two shorthanded goals in the last 68 seconds.

It added five more goals in the second period, two while PDS had a man advantage, two while the teams were even, and finally one on a power play. The Panthers tend to cover better when they are a man down.

"I think we have a mental lapse when we have the extra man," Minter observed. We are not working as hard and tend to take things for granted."

Despite Princeton Day's hustle, Seton Hall took advantage of every lapse, and the score reached 9-0 in the third period. With time running out, Minter put Jeff Zawadsky, Britt Eaton and Jamie Knill together on one line, in an effort to break the shutout. The strategy worked, and Zawadsky scored with about 90 seconds remaining in the contest.

Minter knows there is much work to be done with this team; he put the squad through a tough practice last Thursday after the loss, but he is pleased with the strides the team has made and its spirit.

"This loss was painful for me as a coach," he commented. "The guys were out there doing many of the things we had worked on, getting the puck in the opponents' zone, forcing face-offs there and shooting more. They just did not give up. Eaton, especially, showed some outstanding fire. He was so hard-working it was inspirational."

PDS Quintet Loses Two, On and Off the Court

The Princeton Day boys' basketball team dropped two games last week, one to Hun School, 34-31, and the other to Hill, a game that never was played.

The loss to Hill was a forfeit, when PDS was forced to cancel last Saturday's contest, because all nine players on the team had been suspended for one game.

The action was taken because five members of the team had stolen lacrosse jerseys from the Hun gym after the game there a week ago Tuesday. The theft was discovered by Hun athletic director Bill Quirk, who called Jan Baker, PDS's AD. Baker recovered the missing jerseys, had those players involved return them, and instituted the suspension.

PDS coach Mike Herr, who decided against bringing up some of his jayvee players to play Hill, agreed with the suspension. "We're not only coaches, we're teachers," he pointed out. "Like I told the guys, besides trying to teach basketball, we're trying to formulate some ideals and prepare them for later on."

The forfeit (the game will not be rescheduled) drops PDS to 2-4 on the season. Against Hun, PDS managed to take a four-point lead at the end of the first quarter, 15-11, and hold on to it at the half, 24-20. But the home team, led by Pat Murphy, pulled even at 28 at the end of the third quarter.

Neither team had much of a fourth quarter, but the Raiders managed to outscore PDS six to three to gain the victory. Freshman Chris Jones was the only Panther in double figures with 10 points.

15-Point Win Over Stuart For PDS Girls' Team

The mismatch between the Princeton Day and Stuart girls basketball teams that was evident in December had not improved when the two teams met again last Wednesday.

The Panthers, who rolled to a 37-24 triumph last month, won by a 15-point margin this time, 43-28. The victory gave the Blue and White a 2-1 mark heading into a contest scheduled to be played this past Tuesday afternoon against Pingry. That game will be followed by one against George on Wednesday at home and another at Rutgers Prep away on Friday.

As in the first meeting between the two teams, Stuart and PDS were closely matched for three periods. The Panthers led, 26-22, heading into the final quarter.

At this point, however, PDS's depth began to make a difference; the Panthers had nine players dress for the game, Stuart only six. Princeton Day pulled steadily away to its 43-28 triumph.

Both teams were cold at the beginning, scoring just four points apiece in the opening stanza. PDS's Timory Howe, playing the post position, began to hit and led PDS to an 18-10 halftime lead. Howe had 10 of her game-high 15 in the first half.

In the third period, Edith Roberts kept PDS going, scoring six of her eight points. Julie Howard and Jane Heap each added six for the winners. And PDS's reserves did their part, too. Sara-Jane Matelson scored six in the final period, and Angie Travers came up with four rebounds.

Two School Records Set By Girls in Swim Meet

Two new school records were set by swimmers for the Princeton High girls' swim team in its 104-66 victory over Lawrence High last week. In the same meet, the boys' team lost an 86-73 decision to the Cardinals.

Earlier, in opening meets of the season, coach Janet Jelliffe's girls' team won every event in routing Hamilton, 114-54, while the boys were being thumped, 107-59 by the 4-0 Hornets.

On Thursday, the teams will be at Notre Dame High for a 3:45 meet. On Saturday, the Little Tigers will compete in the girls' Pirate Invitational at the West Windsor pool.

At the Trenton State College 25-yard pool, which is serving as the home pool for the poolless Little Tigers this year, sophomore Danielle Devereux set a new school mark of 5:36.02 in the 500 freestyle, bettering the previous standard of 5:39.5

she set in 1987. Devereux, who spent her time working out at a Fort Lauderdale swim camp while vacationing over the holidays in Florida, also captured the 200 free in 2:04.30, edging teammate Heather Tamm who was timed in 2:05.35.

Senior Susan Crystal also bettered the previous school mark she set last year in the 100 breast, when she fashioned a 1:14.45 effort against the Cardinals. Her record time in the event last year was 1:16.4.

A standout performer last year for PHS, Kate Ashley, began her junior year by winning the 50 free in 26.69 and the 100 back in 1:03.32. Tamm claimed the 100 free in 56.21. Tamm, Ashley, Devereux and Suzanne Maman combined to win the 400 free relay by a sizeable margin over Lawrence, 3:59.92 to 4:53.76.

Rebecca Jones and Liz Medina finished 1-2 in diving for PHS, Amanda Schivell won the 100 fly and Rebecca Dixon took a second for PHS in the 200 IM behind Lawrence's Shawna Seaman.

Two Records for Sanderson. Despite the close loss to Lawrence, the PHS boys established three new school records, two by Matt Sanderson. The senior veteran won the 50 free in 23.65 to better his previous best of 24.14 set last year. Sanderson also swam to a new school mark of 53.16 in the 100 free to surpass Pat Keran's 54.94 set last year.

Freshman Scott Petrone raised some eyebrows with his record performance of 1:01.67 in the 100 fly. The previous mark, set last year by junior teammate Mark Lonski, was 1:06.08.

Another senior veteran, Dana Hutchins of PHS, won the 100 breast in 1:07.44. He then teamed with Petrone, Lonski and Jeff Chen to win the 200 medley relay in 1:55.82. Another PHS quartet finished second in the event and the Cardinals were a distant third at 2:23.39.

Lawrence won the 200 free, 200 IM, diving, 500 free, 100 back and 400 free relay. PHS freshman Dave Schivell was second in the 200 free and 500 free to Lawrence's Peter Holman.

In the boys' Pirate Invitational Swim Meet Saturday at the West Windsor High pool, a meet that attracted some of the top teams in the state, PHS finished last in a field of 13 schools. Cherry Hill East won the team title with 194 points, St. Joseph's Prep was second with 166 and northern power Westfield was third with 154.

Princeton's best effort came in the 200 medley relay where Petrone, Hutchins, Lonski and Sanderson finished seventh with a time of 1:53.07. The winning time of 1:42.24 was set by Pennsbury High. The same PHS quartet took first in the 200 medley relay consolations.

Sanderson finished 11th with a time of 23.95 in the 50 free, where a new meet record of 21.68 was recorded by Scott Mundell of A.I. duPont High. Rich Bolster, Schivell, Lonski and Chen finished 12th in the 400-free relay with a clocking of 4:08.13. The winning time for the event of 3:17.21 set by Westfield was another meet record.

Tigers Trim Fordham, Break for Exams at 7-4

The Princeton University men's basketball team continued its outstanding play last Saturday afternoon, shooting a sizzling 72 percent from the floor (a school record) and getting a career-high 17 points from freshman center Kit Mueller, in a 66-59 trouncing of Fordham at the Bronx's Rose Hill Gymnasium.

TWO OF 16 FOR ORLO: Co-captain Dave Orlandini got two of his 16 points on this second half lay-up to keep the Tigers comfortably ahead of Fordham last Saturday. Princeton won, 66-59. (W.L. Bill Allen, Jr. photo)

The impressive triumph, coming on the heels of a 78-63 defeat of Delaware last Tuesday, gives the Tigers a 7-4 record heading into the two-week final exam break. Meanwhile, the Rams of the Metro Atlantic Conference fell to 5-7 on the season.

"I thought we played a heck of a game, for the most part," said Tiger coach Pete Carril. "They (the players) are going to exams now, and they've accomplished a lot in these first 11 games."

Mueller's effort came as a particularly pleasant surprise to Carril. "I thought Kit was terrific," said the mentor. After recording only six points and four rebounds against Delaware, the 6'7" pivotman caught fire against Fordham, hitting six of eight shots from the field, sinking several clutch foul shots, and grabbing 10 rebounds, as the smaller Tigers outboarded their hosts, 19-16. Mueller also held his own on defense, allowing his 6'10" opposite number, Danny O'Sullivan, just two baskets after a game-opening slam dunk.

"I thought then that we were in trouble, but O'Sullivan didn't turn out to be as tough as we expected," said Mueller, who was typically modest about his own big numbers. "I've picked up our offense pretty well, but I still haven't mastered it. I mess up here and there."

Patient and Tenacious. Few Tigers messed up anywhere in this near-flawless display of patient offense and tenacious man-to-man defense. Princeton made 23 of 32 shots from the field, and missed only twice in the entire second half. Guard and co-captain Dave Orlandini tallied 16 points, and the other captain, forward John Thompson, had his second straight double-figure outing (after not having one since February 1986) with 12 markers.

The Rams, led by forward Tom Parrotta's 13 points, didn't fare too badly themselves, posting a 55 percent mark. A cold spell in the early going, though, and six first-half turnovers put them in a hole almost from the start.

Two jumpers by Thompson, followed by a layup and three-pointer by Orlandini, staked the Tigers to a 12-4 lead midway through a low-scoring first half. With Princeton using up most of the 45-second clock on each of its possessions, the Rams found it hard to catch up. A gorgeous turnaround hook by Mueller with three men guarding him extended the Bengals' advantage to 23-9 with only 2:55 left in the half. A mild Fordham rally brought the halftime score to 27-17.

The Tigers, nonetheless, reasserted control right after intermission, going on a 10-4 run to build a 37-21 edge with five minutes gone. The lead got as high as 18 before the Rams, applying full-court man-to-man pressure, started to claw their way back. Two giveaways by the Tigers on inbounds plays and a baseline jumper and free throw by Parrotta cut it to nine at 45-36 with 8:25 remaining.

"I've been worried about the press," admitted Carril afterward. "There are various kinds, but we haven't had a steady diet of it."

Once Princeton figured out the Rams' trap, though, the issue was settled. Orlandini drove for a nifty five-foot shot, and then Mueller took over. He converted three foul shots and a wide-open layup off an inbounds pass to increase the lead to 56-43 with 3:18 left. The rest was history, as the Tigers cashed in free-throw opportunities down the stretch.

"We shot 55 percent and were never in the game. How about that?" sighed Fordham coach Nick Macarchuk, adding, "It's tough to play defense for 30 or 40 seconds if you're down six or eight points all the time. And it's very frustrating."

A Special Irony. There was a special irony in the game's outcome. Carril had originally wanted 6'8" Fred Herzog, from Avenel, N.J., to come to Princeton and play center this year, but when Herzog opted to attend Fordham, he had to "settle" for Mueller. Some loss. Herzog didn't score a single point in 26 minutes of action for the Rams Saturday, while committing four fouls.

The Tigers had a harrowing moment when, with 10:20 left in the game, forward and leading scorer (with a 16.1 ppg mark) Bob Scrabis crumpled to the floor after colliding with the two defenders on an inbounds play. He came off the court clutching his knee, but the injury turned out to be nothing more than a bruise, and he returned to action just one minute later, finishing with eight points.

Scrabis and the rest of the Princeton squad will now have to try to sustain their momentum until a January 25 home contest against Division III opponent Washington & Jefferson. After that, the long-awaited Ivy League schedule will begin with home games January 29 and 30 versus Brown and Yale.

Based upon their recent performances, the Tigers are shaping up as one of that race's prime contenders.

Injuries Costly to PHS In Tri-Wrestling Meet

It was, said an almost unbelieving Matt Wilkinson, "the worst luck Princeton High has ever had." In the 24 hours before the start of last week's tri-meet with Notre Dame and Hamilton, the Little Tiger wrestling coach staggered under the loss of four starters: Jeff Maguire out with the flu; Alex Fox sidelined for two weeks with a head injury; Josh Lederman out for three weeks with a shoulder injury; Brett Hoebel out for two weeks with a groin pull — "all in one day," sighed Wilkinson.

All are positioned in the lower weights and PHS paid the price. It fell behind Notre Dame, 24-0, and Hamilton, 27-0. "Once we got past 130 pounds we did all right; we had our normal guys," said Wilkinson.

The Little Tigers did indeed. They stormed back against host team Notre Dame to take the lead, 29-26, with one bout to go. PHS has to settle for a 29-29 tie when Irish heavyweight Mark Kopusuniski scored a 6-2 decision over Princeton sophomore Will Dickerson, a real accomplishment in Wilkinson's eyes because it marked the first time the 240-pound Dickerson had to go the full six minutes.

The 1-4-1 Little Tigers were not as successful in their comeback against the 2-2 Hornets. They swept five of six bouts, starting with Ed Bing's pin at 140 pounds, to cut Hamilton's lead to 30-25 with the heavyweight bout remaining. There, Dickerson had the thankless task of facing the Hornets' unbeaten Tony Tucker, who pinned 18 opponents in posting a 27-4 record last year as a junior in advancing to the state tournament. Tucker pinned Dickerson in 1:09 for his fifth fall this season and a 7-0 record.

In both matches, Wilkinson had to forfeit the 112 and 125 pound bouts, in the absence of Fox and Lederman. He replaced Maguire at 103 pounds with freshman Matt Pickens, who was pinned in both matches. Andy Petrone was a double loser — by decision — for Hoebel at 130 pounds.

"You never know what might have been," commented Wilkinson, "but I happen to feel we could have won both of those meets if we didn't have to forfeit.

"Our season is going to depend on how fast we get those guys back in the lineup. It's going to be a long season if we don't."

Wilkinson observed that the Little Tigers got a lucky break in the scheduling, which gives them a week off. The Blue and White will not resume until this Wednesday evening at 8 against Ewing in the Blue

BIG GAME FOR MATT: Hun's Matt Hyldahl (12) goes in for two of his season's high 20 points against visiting Pingry. The 5-11 freshman added three rebounds and two steals in an errorless court performance that Hun coach Kevin Long described as an "outstanding feat" for a freshman.

Hun Quintet Earns Split PDS Falls; Pingry Wins

To paraphrase an old adage, the Hun basketball team learned last week that those who live by the press die by the press.

To compensate for an inexperienced squad, Hun's first-year coach Kevin Long has relied on the press to create scoring opportunities. The Hun quintet was repaid in kind Thursday when visiting Pingry threw a series of presses at Hun to untrack the Raiders and remain unbeaten with an 81-60 win. "They're as good as anybody we've seen this year," said Long.

Earlier in the week, despite the absence of three starters, Hun held on to post a 34-31 win over visiting town rival, Princeton Day School. With the split, Hun has a 3-4 record.

Noting that Hun plays nine games in January, Long said, "It just goes on; it doesn't get any easier."

Hun will have to be at its defensive best if it hopes to post some more wins this week. It will be at always-tough Lawrenceville School this Wednesday for a 5:15 contest and will host rival Pennington School Saturday at 8. On Monday, it will step out of the prep school ranks and entertain Hamilton High in a 3:45 contest.

"At least we broke 60," said Long after the loss to Pingry.

Devils' gym — seven days after the Hamilton-Notre Dame meet.

He agreed that the one-day chain of injuries will probably never happen again. "The fact that we got down there with four guys missing and came back against both showed that they really did try," he said.

Although they were hard to find in all the gloom, Wilkinson reported there were some bright spots. Two, he said, were Robert Perle and Dan Knoepflmacher in the Hamilton match. Perle pinned Hamilton senior Steve Butler in 1:33 and Knoepflmacher defeated senior Paul Evans, 5-2. Both had suffered defeats at the hands of Butler and Evans last year, Wilkinson observed.

Mansier Starts Comeback. Against Notre Dame, sophomore Lawrence Mansier started Princeton's comeback with a 10-4 decision over Mike Peliquin in their 135-pound match. Bing flattened Kevin Watson in 26 seconds and Alfie Zullo followed with a 15-0 technical fall over Mike Estok. Anthony Cucchi and Lou Picone battled to a 3-3 tie but Peer Soderberg of PHS remained unbeated with a 1:52 pin over Don Sullivan — his tenth.

When Perle scored an 8-1 decision over Tim Challender and Knoepflmacher stopped ND 189-pounder Ted Panajeotou, 5-0, Princeton was leading the shocked Irish.

The comeback against Hamilton featured Ed Bing's 3:37 fall over Hornet 140-pounder, Jeff Fell; Perle's pin of Butler and a forfeit win by Soderman to raise his record to 12-0. Cucchi worked over Hamilton's Dave Boszak for an 8-1 decision and Knoepflmacher won 5-2, but a key bout was Joe Storaci's 10-3 decision over Princeton's Zullo in their 152-pound match, which gave the Hornets a commanding 31-10 lead.

Hamilton swept the meet when it also defeated Notre Dame, 41-18.

The visiting Big Blue had employed a series of presses during the game, and Hun, he conceded, "got a little confused early on. The kids didn't react the way I had hoped they would.

"They had a little trouble recognizing what press they were in," added Long. "They hurt us with it; no question about it."

One bright spot for Hun, in fact, exceptionally luminous, was the play of Matt Hyldahl. The 5-11 freshman connected on seven of ten shots from the field and converted all six of his free throws for 20 points, doubling his previous high. In addition, Hyldahl grabbed three rebounds, had two steals and did not turn the ball over once.

"For a freshman, he's done some great things; to do all that is an outstanding feat," praised Long.

Long also cited the play of his captain for the game, 6-3 senior Tony Camisa. "Nothing spectacular," commented Long, "but he rebounded well, moved well and didn't make any mistakes." Camisa ended with five points.

"Hopefully, the experience factor will catch up to us," Long commented. "We have a good foundation but, certainly, we don't want to look past this year. It's been a tough combination. Take inexperienced kids and a new coach ... it's sort of a double whammy.

"But they have done everything I've asked of them. They've worked hard."

Hun Falls to Pressore. Hun took an early lead against Pingry, but it was evident from the start that the Bears' pressing defense was bothering Hun more than the Raiders' press was bothering Pingry.

A three-point play by Scott Aimetti gave Pingry its first lead at 13-12 and Curt Brinkman followed with another three-pointer to widen the margin to 14-12. In the second period, when Brinkman blocked a pass, stole the ball and went in for an easy layup, Pingry owned a 30-16 lead and Long called time out with 6:18 left in the half.

The half ended 41-25 as Hun played for the last shot but Mike Knox failed on both attempts to connect. It didn't get any better in the third period. When Pingry outscored Hun, 24-11, to take a 65-34 lead, the only question remaining was what the final margin would be. The win for Pingry, which placed four in double figures, was its fifth without a loss.

Long missed the steadying influence of veteran Dub Summers, the 6-2 senior who has been sidelined with a leg injury. The team's tallest player, Rafael Garcia, had just returned the previous day from his home town in the Dominican Republic and, although he suited up, he did not play.

Trailing Hyldahl in scoring for Hun was junior guard Paul Martelloni, who reached double figures for the first time with 12. Teammate Deonte Monyoukaye added seven, while Camisa and Noble Ejiogu, conributed five each.

Dave LaValley and Aimetti each scored 16 points to pace the Big Blue. Brinkman had 13 and Kri Hayha added 10 more.

Snyder: Shoot Better And Spread It Around

That most basic of all basketball tenets — you have to put the ball through the hoop to win — is not being observed by the Princeton High basketball team.

After losing two games last week to Lawrence and Ewing and, in between, defeating Montgomery, PHS coach Doug Snyder commented the Little Tigers have not been shooting well. They had compounded the problem by concentrating their scoring on two players. Now, with the ankle injury sustained by John Thompson in the Montgomery game, their offense has narrowed to one: Darius Young.

Snyder reported someone had pointed out to him that until the Lawrence game, Young had accounted for 71 percent of the team's total points. "Right now, we are a two man team," agreed Snyder. "We need Tony [White], Mac [Schafer] and Jay [Jackson] to come in and score more. This is a team game all the way.

"The other schools know it. They'll start throwing junk defenses against us to shut them down. We can't have that; we've got to have others contributing."

In games last week, PHS lost 69-43 to Lawrence, as the Cardinals' all-time scoring leader, Chuck McKay, hit for 34 points; lost for the second time to Ewing, 68-43, as the Blue Devils shut out the poor-shooting Little Tigers, 22-0, in the first period; and defeated Montgomery, 66-40, one of the two teams Snyder said the Little Tigers would prevail over in predicting three wins this season. Overall, the Blue and White is 2-6.

Ahead are three games against Trenton schools, starting with Steinert at home Thursday evening at 7:30; McCorristin here Saturday at 1:30 and Nottingham away Tuesday afternoon at 3:45. PHS was also scheduled to oppose Hamilton this week and Snyder commented he felt his team could play with the Hornets, who have won only once, if Thompson returns to the lineup.

"The guys will have to rally if John doesn't play because another win under our belt would help us and because Steinert is shooting the ball real well. They have four guys who can shoot three-pointers."

Thompson injured his ankle, the same one he had injured as quarterback of the football team, in the opening minutes of the Montgomery game. He did not suit up for the Lawrence game but was walking on the ankle Saturday. As to when Thompson will return to the lineup, Snyder reported as of the moment, it is "up in the air."

McKay Leads Spurt. Lawrence High's superstar, Chuck McKay, entered the contest with PHS as the Cardinals' all-time scorer (1,027 points at the start of his final season) and with a 24.1 average in his team's first six games this year. The 6-2 guard wasted little time in revving up against PHS. He tossed in 13 of his game-high 34 to pace the visiting Cardinals to a 24-9 first period lead.

Snyder "threw the challenge" of guarding McKay to 6-1 Kennedy Herbert. "He plays hard and he rebounds hard," said Snyder of Herbert. "Unfortunately, he picked up two fouls in the first two minutes of the game and we went into a half-court zone trap. We really didn't have anybody guarding him after that."

Continued Snyder: "McKay is a smart player. He positions himself well. He must have had four or five break-away dunks in the first period. He was getting easy layups. That's what frustrated me. We're a smarter team than that — to allow a team to run against us. We're quick. We've got to be smarter when we play."

PHS played the Cardinals even in the second period but then allowed the visitors to outscore them in the last two periods for their fourth win in seven outings.

White was the dominant player for PHS, tossing in 26 points. In the previous game he had 31 against Montgomery (the most anyone scored in one game last year for PHS was 30 by Peter Paris against West Windsor) and 20 against Ewing, giving Young 77 in the three games.

Young and sophomore Anthony White combined to lead PHS past winless (0-7) Montgomery. White backed Young's 31 with 18 points, the first time he has reached double figures this season. "I was pleased with the play of the guards in that game," said Snyder.

PHS opened up a 19-10 first-period lead, only to have the underdog Cougars come back to take a 29-27 lead at the half. In the third period, PHS exploded for a 21-point barrage, outscoring Montgomery 22-1 in the third period. "We went on a tear — just like Ewing did to us in the first quarter," recalled Snyder.

Still Haunting Us. The 22-0 start the Little Tigers suffered at the opening of the Ewing game in the beginning of the week "is still haunting us," said Snyder.

"We didn't hit any shots," explained Snyder. "We didn't get any rebounds. We just couldn't hit over the Ewing zone."

Young had 20 points and Thompson 15 for PHS. Four other players had two points to account for all the Little Tigers' scoring. Ewing placed three players in double figures, led by Kelly Williams' 16, to win its fifth game in six starts.

Hun Will Host Larries On Mat This Saturday

Although first-year wrestling coach Dave Engel is quick to admit that this is a rebuilding year on the mat for the Raiders, he is just as quick to add: "But we can't give up hope for positive, strong individual performances." For instance, Engel said it will be interesting to see what Hun's Brad Carris does this Saturday in a dual meet with Lawrenceville.

Hun will host a strong Lawrenceville team Saturday at 2. It was also scheduled to oppose Wardlaw away earlier in the week.

In two dual meets last week, Hun (1-4) was routed, 60-9, by perennnial prep power Dwight-Englewood and, earlier in the week, won its first match with HV freshman Shawn Fritz in a 47-24 triumph over Hopewell Valley.

Two of those strong, individual performances that Engel spoke of were turned in against Englewood by Josh Waxman and Jim Sheeder. Waxman scored a 15-4 technical fall over Sam Ferrel at 152 pounds, and Sheeder followed with a 9-6 decision over Seth Resner in their 160-pound match for Hun's only points. For Sheeder, the quarterback on the Hun football team, who is wrestling for first time this year, the win was his first.

"That made it all the sweeter," said Engel. "I'm delighted with his contribution to the team."

Six Hun wrestlers were pin victims, and Hun veteran Steve McNally lost a 3-0 decision to Pete Tucci, Englewood's fine 112-pounder.

Good for the Team. "It was nice to get that first win; I think it was good for the team," said Engel after Hun's win last week over the Hopewell Valley Bulldogs.

There were a number of forfeits in the match. Hun forfeited the 103- and 171-pound matches, Hopewell at 140, 162 and 189 pounds. There was a double forfeit at 145.

Engel reported that Martin Dear, who scored a 64 second pin in his 135-pound match, and heavyweight Harrison Rosenthal, who decked Hopewell's Rick Weasner in 3:09, "were both as good as they've looked all season."

Other winners for Hun included McNally, who pinned HV freshman Shawn Fritz in 1:00, and Carris, who outlasted Hopewell's Pete Calabrese, 17-15, in a wild match. Waxman and the Bulldogs' David Grey battled to an 8-8 standoff in their 152-pound match.
